Taylor Warns World Watching U.S. Fight Against Subversion by Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor warned today of worldwide repercussions unless the United States demonstrates in Viet Nam that Communist wars of subversion are "costly, dangerous and doomed to failure."

Appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a growing debate over the Viet Nam war, the high Johnson administration adviser testified there is a simple answer to the question: "What are we doing in South Viet Nam?"

The answer is, he said, that "For more than a decade, we have been taking sides in a cause in which we have a vital interest."

Alluding to the falling-domino theory, the former ambassador to Viet Nam said he does not exactly subscribe to it if it means that adjoining nations will fall automatically if South Viet Nam goes.

"But," he said, "I am deeply impressed by the probable worldwide effects."

Communist leaders of Red China, Russia, and Hanoi, he said, have made plain their plan to back so-called "wars of liberation," which he described as actually internal subversion. They believe, he said, that such wars are bound to succeed and spread to other vulnerable nations.

One aim of the United States in Viet Nam is to "destroy the myth of invincibility," the general said, to show that such subversion cannot win.

He declared that U.S. policy is based on the following hope: That failure of the Viet Cong to win on the ground, combined with U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam targets will cause the Hanoi regime to change its mind, "redefine its aims" and join in negotiations to better the lot of all the Vietnamese people.

But "until it becomes perfectly clear to them that we are not to be thrown off our course by anything they do," the chances that they will appear at a conference table are unfortunately slim, said Taylor, who is former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In advance of Taylor's testimony, committee chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., defended the public, televised hearings, saying he hopes they will help the administration make wise decisions about the war.

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union today denounced flights of American nuclear bombers as a violation of the 1963 partial test ban treaty. The United States rejected the charge as "false and mere propaganda."

The two nuclear powers clashed in the 17-nation disarmament talks when Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin read a memorandum by his government. He claimed the Spanish coastal area was being contaminated after the crash of an American B52 with nuclear bombs last month.

The memorandum said the Soviet government considers this "a flagrant violation of international law and of the 1963 Moscow treaty." Tsarapkin said the memorandum was directed to all states and constituted an appeal for termination of these flights.

U.S. chief delegate William C. Foster declined to go into the substance of the Soviet statement, saying:

"One is led to wonder what purpose lies beyond the repetitions and false allegations about this incident and why the Soviet delegate asked to be the first speaker today, just to read a statement delivered yesterday to my government by the Soviet government."

"Presumably, if the Soviet government had other than propaganda in mind, it would have awaited a reply through diplomatic channels."

U.S. delegation officials said the Soviet statement contained no direct or indirect threat of a Moscow treaty.

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The extension of Interstate Highway 55 from a point south below the New Madrid overpass may start April 29.

Circuit Judge, William L. Ragland of Caruthersville, while the court was in session Tuesday named the commissioners from New Madrid and Pemiscot counties.

These commissioners will appraise the land and assess damages. They must file their report by March 12.

Names on the commission from New Madrid county were Hartzell Kimes of Marston, Arvil Adams of Portageville, and Francis Baird of New Madrid. Between 40 to 45 farms are involved.

In Pemiscot county the commissioners are: Kirby Van Ausdale of Caruthersville, Troy McCullough, Star Route Hayti, and Jerry Hamra of Steele. Their study and appraisal would indicate between three and four farms south of the New Madrid county line in Pemiscot county, which is scheduled to be let to the contractor, with work to start April 29.

I-55 has been completed from New Madrid to a point near Fruitland, north. Coming from Memphis, north, it is completed to a point near Steele.

The next project in this area would be from the North Pemiscot county line extending south to where I-55 is completed near Steele.

VATICAN CITY AP - Pope Paul VI decreed major changes today in the centuries-old rules of fasting and abstinence for the world's Roman-Catholics.

Days of fasting during the pre-Easter Lenten season were reduced to two - Ash Wednesday and Good Friday. The obligation to abstain from meat on all Fridays remains in force but children do not have to observe it until they are 14. The present age is 7.

The Pope specified that Friday abstinence applies only to meat -- not to eggs, dairy products and soups and gravies made with animal fat.

Ash Wednesday was made a day of abstinence as well as a fast day-meaning no meat can be eaten.

The Pope decreed the changes in an apostolic constitution titled "Do Penance."

Maritime Unions Are Considering Boycott of Ships

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. - AP - Maritime unions meeting here today reportedly will consider boycotting foreign ships -- including those of Allied nations-- that trade with North Viet Nam. The boycott in effect would close U.S. ports to hundreds of foreign vessels.

A spokesman for the AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Department said the International Longshoremen's Association which imposed a boycott against U.S. wheat shipments to the Soviet Union two years ago, will propose the new boycott.

The spokesman said such a boycott would affect ships of Great Britain, France, Norway, Italy, Greece, United Arab Republic and other nations that have dealt with North Viet Nam.

Johnson Avoids Talk of Peace

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson, in his latest defense of administration policies in Viet Nam, has talked of eventual military victory and, perhaps pointedly, avoided all references to hopes for a peaceful solution.

Addressing the convention of the American Association of School Administrators here Wednesday night, Johnson devoted almost as many words to Viet Nam as to education.

In an obvious response to critics who claim this country's stake in Southeast Asia does not warrant war, Johnson said he came away from his Honolulu conference with leaders of South Viet Nam "convinced that we cannot raise a double standard to the world."

He said: "We cannot hold freedom less dear in Asia than in Europe or be less willing to sacrifice for men whose skins are a different color."

Royal Arch degrees will be presented to 20 at a meeting of Kingsway chapter 144 Royal Arch Masons on South Kingsway, Saturday.

Chapter degrees will be presented, beginning at 2 p.m., followed by a supper, in charge of the wives of Masons.

The presentation of the degrees will be made following the dinner.

Candidates are J. W. Shuffit and Sheriff John Dennis, both of Benton; C. B. Taylor and Milton Harris, both of Morley; Charles and Gene Ringer, both of Dexter; Raul Neal, Oran; Jack Morgan, Advance; Jack Allen and Elmer Sneed, both of Libourne; Charles Royal, Freddie Hise, Dale Alcorn, John Marshall, Jerry Bell, Henry Bussey, Charles Conn, C. E. Felker, and Rev. Myron Neal, all of Sikeston; and Harris E. Wright, Morehouse.

Impact Of War Growing

NEW YORK (AP) — The impact of the Viet Nam war on the American economy is growing.

It hasn't reached the proportions of the Korean War, when wage and price controls were imposed, but it is very real. And it brings with it the ominous threat of inflation.

Labor and material shortages are occurring and some transportation is being taxed.

Government officials and business executives face problems that will have to be solved as the Viet Nam conflict escalates. Liaison between government and business has become an everyday affair as the administration seeks cooperation on prices, balance of payments and availability of strategic supplies.

Big orders for airplanes and helicopters are keeping the aircraft plants humming. Apparel manufacturers are having a hard time meeting government needs for uniforms. Airlines are struggling to haul vast quantities of materials and men to the war zone.

The military demands are coming on top of a booming civilian economy that has pushed factories to capacity or near capacity production. Apprehension about inflation is rising.

The junior high school will conduct a science fair Friday.

The public is invited to see the exhibit between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. in the cafeteria.

$42,276 Alert Grant Approved

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Approval of 15 grants totaling $267,493 from the Office of Economic Opportunity were announced today by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

The money will be used to finance a "Medicare Alert" program to be operated by community agencies. They will help inform elderly in poor urban and rural areas of benefits available to them under the Medicare program.

The local agencies and their grants include:

Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corp. of Mississippi, Dunklin, Scott, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Stoddard counties $42,276.

Office Move Next Week

The office force of the Scott County Milling Company will move into its redecorated offices next week following a fire in the basement Feb. 3, according to Ben Bowman, vice president of the company.

The fire caused no structural damage to the building.

The major damage was to a furnace and air conditioner in the basement, which are being replaced. The main floor office is being redecorated.

Temporary quarters have been in a nearby empty building. The office building is on West Malone.

One Rail Merger Plan Criticized, Praise Another

"Union Pacific railroad's plan to take over the Rock Island bears the seeds of destruction of traffic for many other railroads and the regional economy they serve," S. A. Keathley, traffic manager-southwest region of the Chicago and North Western Railway Company charged at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in the Mid-Towner restaurant today. He said that if Union Pacific is permitted to take over the Rock Island, the damage to other midwestern railroads would be so severe that it would cripple their ability to maintain branch line service.

"This means that local economies, like Sikeston's are going to suffer," Keathley declared.

The North Western spokesman said there is an alternative -- one that would not only avoid such economic chaos but would result in strengthening both the marginal midwestern railroads and the local economies they serve.

"North Western's proposal to merge with Rock Island would have many favorable effects," he said.

Jilted Teenager Ships Booby-Trap Valentine

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. AP - Police said love that turned to hate motivated a teen-ager shipping clerk to send his former sweetheart a booby-trapped valentine that injured her little sister.

The teenager, Hollie Victor Robinson, 19, was quoted by Detective Jake Turner as saying that he didn't know why he rigged the gift and at the time didn't know it could kill. He said he later realized it could have killed the girl and is glad it didn't.

This comment of Robinson's was incorporated in a statement admitting he rigged the huge "valentine" with the working end of a sawed-off shotgun inside a newspaper-wrapped attaché case.

The package was intended for Nancy Adams, 17, a high school cheerleader, but her sister Patricia, 13, opened it and received the shotgun blast in her foot Wednesday.

The girl was reported in fair condition at West End Hospital. Physicians said the blast had not broken any bones in her foot.

Robinson was charged with assault with intent to murder.

School Science Fair on Friday

The junior high school will conduct a science fair Friday.

The public is invited to see the exhibit between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. in the cafeteria.

Science projects of seventh, eighth and ninth grade students will be exhibited. Five projects will be chosen to represent the school in the southeast district science fair at Cape Girardeau.

Judges for the Sikeston fair will be Mrs. Mildred Robinson and Bernard Kinsey, teachers at high school and Harley Barnes, vice principal of the junior high school.

Four Treated For Minor Accidents

There were four persons treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Wednesday:

Allen M. Blanton, cut hand in home; Audrey D. Bentley, Chaffee, hit in temple by student's elbow at school; Sharon Dodge, Morehouse, rammed right wrist through glass door; Otto Louis Schlitt, Oran, injured middle finger on right hand at home while using electric plane.

Order of Lenin Given to Abel

MOSCOW AP -- The Soviet Union's highest award, the Order of Lenin, has been presented to Col. Rudolph Abel.

The Soviet master spy who was arrested in the United States in 1957 also received a number of other high honors for his 30 years as an intelligence agent, the newspaper Trud-Labor reported today.

Agree to End Strike

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic AP -- The majority of the Dominican Republic's labor leaders agreed today to end a damaging general strike after President Hector Garcia Godoy promised to send two top military officers abroad.

The strike leaders acted shortly after the president warned in a radio-television speech that government employees would lose their jobs if they did not resume work today.

He said if necessary he would use police to reopen Santo Domingo's port and airport and other public services. Headed that he was taking steps to see that his Jan. 6 order transferring military leaders to diplomatic posts abroad was fully obeyed.

The strike was called eight days ago to protest police violence during the Communist-led students demonstration in which three students were killed.

Two Waive Hearings

NEW MADRID -- Two felons headed the docket of magistrate court this week with Judge Erle Wright of Portageville presiding.

Bobby Ray Collins, charged with felonious assault, waived his preliminary hearing and was bound over for trial in circuit court with bond set at $5,000.

Winford Darrough, charged with exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon, waived preliminary hearing before Judge Wright. He, too, was remanded to circuit court. His bond was set at $500.

A trucker was fined on two counts of exceeding legal load limits this week. B. T. Johnson paid $115 for an overweight of 1700 pounds and another fine of $25 for an overweight of 600 pounds.

Violations of Missouri public service commission laws brought fines of $10 each to Winland Trucking and Railway Express Agency.

Paying $11 fines were Railway Express Agency, expired vehicle license; Transit Homes, Inc., vehicle overweight; Clides Fleming, Sr., defective brakes; and Transit Homes, Inc., vehicle overweight.

Those fined $15 were Anthony Kervin Lumber Company, vehicle overweight on license; Dan Davis, expired truck license; Larry Nolen, exceeding legal speed limits; and Boyd Waylan Pickler, improper registration of a motor vehicle.

Enforcing City License Law

Seven arrests were made by police Wednesday, five of which were for not having a city auto license.

Robert Campbell, East Prairie charged with non-support, Charles Jones, 1404 Osage, charged with peace disturbance and assault and affray.

Charged with not having a city auto license are Billy Sloan, Steve Carter, 906 Hawthorne, Floyd Reed, Billy Wilson, and Berta Jean McCann, all of Sikeston.

Drop in Deaths

CHICAGO AP -- Workers killed in accidents on the job totaled 14,100 in 1965, the National Safety Council said today. This was 100 fewer than in 1964.

To Contract Call Standard Office

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- The Southwestern Power Administration will let a contract Friday for construction of a power line from Kennett to Gideon, and from Idalia to Sikeston, Missouri.

Senators Edward V. Long and Stuart Symington, and Rep. Paul Jones, Kennett Democrat, announced today.

One segment of the line will run through parts of Dunklin, Pemiscot, and New Madrid counties, in the south, to connect Kennett, with Gideon.

Another segment will run from Idalia in Stoddard county, through Scott county to Sikeston. Total cost of the construction contract will be $509,426, according to the announcement. Both of the segments of the line will be of the 154 kilovolt type.

The contract will be let to the Irbay Construction Company, at 817 South State Street, Jackson, Miss.

Appoint Woman To Board

Danner Passes First Test

It took Danner, the police dog, 38 minutes to capture his first burglary suspects.

The home of John Franklin, a farmer north of Sikeston, was broken into yesterday and a .22 caliber pistol, a shotgun and dishes stolen.

The dog and Sgt. Ruben Templeton were called to Sunset addition to track down two Negro suspects, observed by Mr. Houston Duncan in a neighbor's yard. She called police at 1:22 p.m. Wednesday to investigate.

Deputy sheriff Eddie Michael started the investigation and called the highway patrol, who sent Sgt. Gene Harris.

Floyd Champion, 48, and Roy Jones, 40, headed for an open field and had a headstart. Police Chief Arthur Bruce and Lt. Jim Stone joined the group and spread out over a road toward Va. duser.

Hiding in a field about a quarter mile from Sgt. Templeton and the dog, were the two suspects. The dog spotted the two and with his master started after them.

Templeton shouted to the two to "Come out with your hands up."

Templeton and the dog approached the two. Jones commented that "when I seen that dog, there was nuthin' to do but stop. I saw those teeth, and they looked to me like they were six inches long."

While Templeton searched the two, the dog stood nearby and watched every move the two men made.

Champion was brought to the city jail. Jones was taken to the county jail in Benton. Champion will be taken there, where charges will be filed, today.

AFTER A CHASE IN A FIELD, Scott County Deputy Sheriff Eddie Michael, Sgt. Ruben Templeton, Danner, Floyd Champion and Roy Jones posed for this picture.

'World Getting Better' Says Jacob After Trip

Wilmer "Jake" Jacob, area manager of the chemicals department of an oil firm, returned from a three-week flying tour of South America, gives a bird's eye view of what it is like in that continent.

He was one of 44 members on a people to people trip, which left Miami, Fla., and landed in Lima, Peru.

He reminds any traveler on a short trip about the language barrier, currency problems and the metric system.

"Remember," said Jacob, "practically all countries, except the United States and Great Britain, use the metric system."

Jacob pointed out that the countries in the 30 to 40th parallel, both in the northern and southern hemispheres, were more progressive than those outside of this zone. Much of South America is outside this zone.

"Roads and transportation

over most of the countries are almost non-existent," he said.

"Peru is only 11 per cent inhabitable, 38 per cent covered by the Andes mountains, and the balance in forests. The same is true of Ecuador, Bolivia, Paraguay, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil and Venezuela."

"Distance is no object, mainly because no one is able to travel any long distance. I was asked to look up an exchange student who spent last summer with Mr. and Mrs. Tony Stadler in Sikeston."

"The man lived in a city in Paraguay. I was told he lived near the city. When I asked a resident there, he exclaimed, 'Oh, yes, that would be about 400 kilometers from here.' As I later learned, it was around 240 miles."

"The world is the same over when it comes to the shortage of water. I was always wanting water, and in some places we had to buy it."

"The word Argentine and beef are synonymous. You only get 'hot' beef, slaughtered on the spot, as there is little or no refrigeration. The grassfed steak dinner one day for a two-inch thick steak, cost me 69 cents, and was one of the best I have ever eaten."

He was disappointed about the new city of Brasilia, in Brazil. Jacob left his party and took a 600-mile side tour to this city.

"I found it in the middle of a devastated land," he said. "A few hundred yards from the huge six to 12 story buildings, you will find hundreds of wild country that have ant hills from two to eight feet high. The building goes on by small degrees, and the people who move there will be far removed from the outside world, other than by communication."

The purpose of building this capitol so far inland is to develop the resources of the country and to be able to export more products.

The exchange of currency in South America, may range from a low of about four to one to as high as 2,400 to one of American money.

Education of the people in most of the countries is low, said Jacob.

"Last year there was only 102 agricultural graduates in all of Argentina," he said. "Since 95 per cent of the people are Catholic, most of the elementary schools are missions, and these children are taught to do productive things."

"Let me add a final note about poverty in South America," he said. "I found little of it that is any different than we have in America. The people were pleasant and happy, although they know little of the outside world. Due to the warm climate they need less shelter, food and clothing."

"From what I've learned on this trip, I feel the world is getting a little better."

Welfare Pay Rises in State

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Payments increased for all three major welfare programs in January, the Welfare Division reported today.

There were 99,275 old-age assistance recipients on the rolls last month, 333 fewer than in December, but payments went up $403,112 to $6,839,588 because of a boost in the rates. The average grant was $68.89, up $4.27.

Aid to dependent children grants went to 25,007 families, a decline of 72. But total payments increased $98,548 to $2,657,157. The average family grant was $102.17, up $4.06.

Aid to the permanently and totally disabled went to 15,574 persons, an increase of five. Total payments amounted to $1,126,032, an increase of $64,637. The average grant was up $4.17 to $72.30.

Danner Passes First Test

It took Danner, the police dog, 38 minutes to capture his first burglary suspects.

The home of John Franklin, a farmer north of Sikeston, was broken into yesterday and a .22 caliber pistol, a shotgun and dishes stolen.

The dog and Sgt. Ruben Templeton were called to Sunset addition to track down two Metro suspects -- observed by Mr. Houston Duncan in a neighbor's yard. She called police at 1:22 p.m. Wednesday to investigate.

Deputy sheriff Eddie Michael started the investigation and called the highway patrol, who sent Sgt. Gene Harris.

Floyd Champion, 48, and Roy Jones, 40, headed for an open field and had a head start. Police Chief Arthur Bruce and Lt. Jim Stone joined the group and spread out over a road toward Vasser.

Hiding in a field about a quarter mile from Sgt. Templeton and the dog, were the two suspects. The dog spotted the two and with his master started after them.

Templeton shouted to the two to "come out with your hands up."

Templeton and the dog approached the two. Jones commented that "when I seen that dog, there was nuthin' to do but stop. I saw those teeth, and they looked to me like they were six inches long."

While Templeton searched the two, the dog stood nearby and watched every move the two men made.

Champion was brought to the city jail. Jones was taken to the county jail in Benton. Champion will be taken there, where charges will be filed, today.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. AP -- Comedian Bob Hope, who says he has a virus or the flu, has been told by doctors to take it easy for awhile in bed.

Johnson Avoids Talk of Peace

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson, in his latest defense of administration policies in Viet Nam, has talked of eventual military victory and, perhaps pointedly, avoided all references to hopes for a peaceful solution.

Addressing the convention of the American Association of School Administrators here Wednesday night, Johnson devoted almost as many words to Viet Nam as to education.

In an obvious response to critics who claim this country's stake in Southeast Asia does not warrant war, Johnson said he came away from his Honolulu conference with leaders of South Viet Nam "convinced that we cannot raise a double standard to the world."

He said: "We cannot hold freedom less dear in Asia than in Europe or be less willing to sacrifice for men whose skins are a different color."

Royal Arch Degree for 20

Royal Arch degrees will be presented to 20 at a meeting of Kingsway chapter 144 Royal Arch Masons on South Kingsway highway, Saturday.

Chapter degrees will be presented, beginning at 2 p.m., followed by a supper, in charge of the wives of Masons.

The presentation of the degrees will be made following the dinner.

Candidates are J. W. Shuffitt and Sheriff John Dennis, both of Benton; C. B. Taylor and Milton Harris, both of Morley; Charles and Gene Ringer, both of Dexter; Raul Neal, Oran; Jack Morgan, Advance; Jack Allen and Elmer Sneed, both of Lilbourn; Charles Royal, Freddie Hise, Dale Alcorn, John Marshall, Jerry Bell, Henry Bussey, Charles Conn, C. E. Felker, and Rev. Myron Neal, all of Sikeston; and Harris E. Wright, Morehouse.

School Science Fair on Friday

The junior high school will conduct a science fair Friday. The public is invited to see the exhibit between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. in the cafeteria.

Science projects of seventh, eighth and ninth grade students will be exhibited. Five projects will be chosen to represent the school in the southeast district science fair at Cape Girardeau.

Judges for the Sikeston fair will be Mrs. Mildred Robinson and Bernard Kinsey, teachers at high school and Harley Barnes, vice principal of the junior high school.

Office Move Next Week

The office force of the Scott County Milling Company will move into its redecorated offices next week following a fire in the basement Feb. 3, according to Ben Bowman, vice president of the company.

The fire caused no structural damage to the building.

The major damage was to a furnace and air conditioner in the basement, which are being replaced. The main floor of office is being redecorated.

Temporary quarters have been in a nearby empty building. The office building is on West Malone.

Four Treated For Minor Accidents

There were four persons treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Wednesday:

Allen M. Blanton, cut hand in home; Audrey D. Bentley, Chaffee, hit in temple by student's elbow at school; Sharon Dodge, Morehouse, rammed right wrist through glass door; Otto Louis Schlitt, Oran, injured middle finger on right hand at home while using electric plane.

Order of Lenin Given to Abel

MOSCOW AP -- The Soviet Union's highest award, the Order of Lenin, has been presented to Col. Rudolph Abel.

The Soviet master spy who was arrested in the United States in 1957 also received a number of other high honors for his 30 years as an intelligence agent, the newspaper Trud Labor reported today.

Two Waive Hearings

NEW MADRID -- Two felons headed the docket of magistrate court this week with Judge Erie Wright of Portageville presiding.

Bobby Ray Collins, charged with felonious assault, waived his preliminary hearing and was bound over for trial in circuit court with bond set at $5,000.

Winford Darrough, charged with exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon, waived preliminary hearing before Judge Wright. He, too, was remanded to circuit court. His bond was set at $500.

A trucker was fined on two counts of exceeding legal load limits this week. B. T. Johnson paid $15 for an overload of 1700 pounds and another fine of $25 for an overload of 600 pounds.

Violations of Missouri public service commission laws brought fines of $110 each to Windland Trucking and Railway Express Agency.

Paying $11 fines were Railway Express Agency, expired vehicle license; Transit Homes, Inc., vehicle overweight; Clides Fleming, Sr., defective brakes; and Transit Homes, Inc., vehicle overweight.

Those fined $15 were Anthony Kervin Lumber Company, vehicle overweight on license; Dan Davis, expired truck license; Larry Nolen, exceeding legal speed limits; and Boyd Waylan Pickler, improper registration of a motor vehicle.

Enforcing City License Law

Seven arrests were made by police Wednesday, five of which were for not having a city auto license.

Robert Campbell, East Prairie charged with non-support. Charles Jones, 1404 Osage, charged with peace disturbance and assault and affray.

Charged with not having a city auto license are Billy Sloan, Stove Carter, 906 Hawthorne, Floyd Reed, Billy Wilson, and Berta Jean McCann, all of Sikeston.

South America, may range from a low of about four to one to as high as 2,400 to most of American money.

Education of the people in most of the countries is low, said Jacob.

"Last year there was only 102 agricultural graduates in all of Argentina," he said. "Since 95 per cent of the people are Catholic, most of the elementary schools are missions, and these children are taught to do productive things."

"Let me add a final note about poverty in South America," he said. "I found little of it that is any different than we have in America. The people were pleasant and happy, although they knew little of the outside world. Due to the warm climate they need less shelter, food and clothing."

"From what I've learned on this trip, I feel the world is getting a little better."

over most of the countries are almost non-existent," he said.

"Peru is only 11 per cent inhabitable, 38 per cent covered by the Andes mountains, and the balance in forests. The same is true of Ecuador, Bolivia, Paraguay, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil and Venezuela."

"Distance is no object, mainly because no one is able to travel any long distance. I was asked to look up an exchange student who spent last summer with Mr. and Mrs. Tony Statler in Sikeston."

"The man lived in a city in Paraguay. I was told he lived near the city. When I asked a resident there, he exclaimed, 'Oh, yes, that would be about 400 kilometers from here.' As I later learned, it was around 240 miles."

"The world is the same over when it comes to the shortage of water. I was always wanting water, and in some places we had to buy it."

"The word Argentine and beef are synonymous. You only get 'hot' beef, slaughtered on the spot, as there is little or no refrigeration. The grassfed steak dinner one day for a two-inch thick steak, cost me 69 cents, and was one of the best I have ever eaten."

He was disappointed about the new city of Brasilia, in Brazil. Jacob left his party and took a 600-mile side tour to this city.

"I found it in the middle of a devastated land," he said. "A few hundred yards from the huge six to 12 story buildings, you will find hundreds of wild country that have ant hills from two to eight feet high. The building goes on by small degrees, and the people who move there will be far removed from the outside world, other than by communication."

The purpose of building this capitol so far inland is to develop the resources of the country and to be able to export more products.

'World Getting Better' Says Jacob After Trip

Wilmer "Jake" Jacob, area manager of the chemicals department of an oil firm, returned from a three-week flying tour of South America, gives a bird's eye view of what it is like in that continent.

He was one of 44 members on a people to people trip, which left Miami, Fla., and landed in Lima, Peru.

He reminds any traveler on a short trip about the language barrier, currency problems and the metric systems.

"Remember," said Jacob, "practically all countries, except the United States and Great Britain, use the metric system."

Jacob pointed out that the countries in the 30 to 40th parallel, both in the northern and southern hemispheres, were more progressive than those outside of this zone. Much of South America is outside this zone.

WHAT IS THE ADVERTISING BUSINESS REALLY LIKE?

Advertising Recognition Week, February 13 thru 20, invites a tribute to an American phenomenon that is at once industry's way of telling us what's for sale, a stimulant to our freedom of choice in the market place, a catalyst to business, an influence on public taste and our way of life, and an underwriter of public communication in publishing, broadcasting and other fields.

Advertising does indeed serve these purposes, so vital to our American way of life. For all these things, we salute the advertising industry.

We commend advertising, also, for recognizing one of its very real problems and taking the occasion of Advertising Recognition Week to launch a concentrated effort to do something about combatting the damaging fictional "Madison Avenue Image" portrayed by melodramatic movies and books.

Beginning this week the Advertising Association of the West and the Advertising Federation of America are beginning an advertising program to tell the story of the advertising business through the people who work in advertising jobs.

Directed primarily to young people, but simultaneously to parents and opinion leaders, the series shows how advertising careers offer intellectual challenge, opportunity for self-development, social significance and direct relationships to our national goals. It shows how advertising jobs reward creativity and imagination, how people can succeed in advertising, how they contribute to the advancement of the American society, and how they find satisfaction, excitement and fun working in advertising.

Newspaper people, who very well know and appreciate the difference between the real newsroom and that depicted in fiction, can understand the problems that advertising people are up against as they strive to correct public misunderstanding of the advertising business.

We wish them success in their efforts to show that fact can be as eloquent as fiction, or even more so.

The Colonel said: "Any man who says he understands his wife will lie about other things also."

THE HIGH PRICE OF DEBT

The American way of debt is built on easy credit. Merchants are quick to sell goods on time to almost anyone with a job. Should the accumulation of monthly payments become too heavy, there is always the friendly local finance company willing to "consolidate" the debts at an even higher rate of interest. Total consumer debt at the end of 1965--exclusive of mortgage debt--stood at nearly $86 billion--up $8 billion over a year earlier.

The overwhelming majority of American families manage to pay back their creditors. But a recent national survey shows that in 1965 an estimated 163,000 Americans had to go to court to declare themselves personally bankrupt. This is about 5 per cent more than the previous year. A bankruptcy referee in Portland, Oregon, declared: "Consumers buy without counting the ultimate cost. They never learn the lesson that the longer you pay the more you pay."

Truth-in-lending legislation now before the Congress would make it somewhat easier for the consumer to count the cost. Lenders would be required to disclose in advance the actual amount of a borrower's commitment and the actual annual rate of interest he must pay. President Johnson has called for enactment of this legislation three times in the last three years. But it never has reached the floor of either Senate or House.

No federal or state law can protect the compulsive buyer whose inability to say "no" to salesmen results in consumer debt totaling three or four times his annual salary. And it will be argued that the individual and his creditors are the only ones who should decide what the limits on debt and interest should be. Still, the fact that personal bankruptcies have increased for the last 13 years in a row--the last five of them in a period of economic boom--raises issues that involve the well-being of the nation as a whole.

More than 25,000 infants will be born this year with cerebral palsy, according to the United Cerebral Palsy Association.

President Lyndon B. Johnson makes it appear that all of his critics on Viet Nam war policy actually agree with him. It's the way of the consensus.

It is true that there are shades of differences but the positions--contrary to what he would have the American people believe--are different.

It is true that the war is not a popular one if any conflict can be said to be popular. The involvement is annoying, costly, too often fatal, and no satisfactory outcome has ever been held up to the American people.

Some of the alternatives to abandoning the war, however, are not pretty--loss of face in Asia, if not the world, permitting the Communists to conquer one more nation and abandonment of an ally.

The final result is mentioned last deliberately. It may be that the Vietnamese don't actually want Communist rule but they are an indifferent people to their form of government, more interested in avoiding starvation and probably incapable of governing themselves alone. There is no reason to believe that pacification will fare any better than other forms of foreign aid offered by this country, a program marked by waste and failure.

There is substantial agreement, however reluctant, that the United States should not abandon Viet Nam.

From here the real controversy begins. There are those who would not escalate the war. There are those who want our planes to bomb more, especially real military targets or sources of military supply--among them Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, a recent visitor to the war zone--and those who want our troops only to defend what they now hold. There are a million and one ideas for waging a peace offensive. Most of them appear to have been tried and to have proved to be futile.

A big question mark is Red China. There is plenty of stewing as well as just pondering about what the Chinese will do.

In this respect, this country's Korean experience is fresh enough in our memories to be reviewed at least briefly.

In Korea this country by its own volition confined itself to a ground war. It did not pursue the enemy beyond a certain point.

What was the effect? To give the Chinese a privileged sanctuary, where unmolested by enemy military action, they could build a force of sufficient size and with enough power to clobber our troops and to force them into retreat.

We do not believe that our interests can best be served by trying to appease Red China or any of the elements in control of North Viet Nam. It would be a sign of weakness.

We'll leave to the military experts how much bombing should be done in North Viet Nam. We are confident the need should be based on protecting the lives and safety of our troops in Viet Nam and not on any fear of what Red China might do.

Bombing of North Viet Nam is necessary. It should not be stopped. It probably should be increased with more rather than less or the same military targets the object of strikes by American planes.

It is all right to debate the issues at home but let's speak in Viet Nam with guns--the only language that the Communists understand and will heed.

We wonder why when we drive up to a street intersection that has a left turn lane and wave the car across the street to go ahead of us they look at us as if we were crazy. Sometimes we think ourselves that maybe we could be just a little nutty to show any consideration for a fellow motorist.

The Missouri Highway Patrol reports that 102 people were killed in traffic during the month of January. The toll was the second highest ever recorded for January. The worst record for the first month of the year was in 1965 when 126 lives were lost in traffic. For the past five years, 438 people have been killed in Missouri during January.

This year's January traffic toll included 32 lives lost in 14 multiple death accidents. Ten pedestrians were killed last month, five each in the urban and rural areas of the State. All but two of the walking victims were 50 years of age or over.

Captain John A. Berglund, of the Patrol's Safety Division, stated that the relatively mild weather experienced in January may have accounted for the high number of traffic fatalities. He said, "When the weather is

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) -- The most saving grace of man is his desire to be different.

We live in an age of mass conformity. But no matter how meek and obedient to patterns and programs we all may be, each one of us has a secret passion against anonymity.

If you become well enough acquainted with any person, you will find he cherishes some fact of distinction that yields him separate identity. It is a very human need.

For example, once I met a man of late middle years who, while reminiscing, remarked he had turned in two fire alarms during his life.

"What's so unusual about that?" one of his listeners asked.

"Well," said the man, "have you ever met anyone else who has turned in two fire alarms?"

His point was obvious. Most people are born, married, raise a family, pay off a mortgage, and die without ever having to turn in even one fire alarm.

Some people become stand-outs on purpose. Like Alexander the Great, they conquer the world. Or they sell a refrigerator to an Eskimo.

Those are deliberate means of distinction. They win immortality or brief notoriety by great deed or freak performances that catch the long admiration or short-lived attention of mankind.

William Shakespeare, naturally, will be remembered as long as the English language is.

Turning to the other category, perhaps the name of Philip Yazzik already has faded from your memory. But in Chicago on April 25, 1955, Yazzik accomplished the record feat of consuming 77 hamburgers at one sitting.

But whether he seeks or avoids the glare of the lime-light, a man can always find something in his life that lifts him from the dead level of the commonplace. Something has happened to him somewhere along the way that makes him different.

And the difference doesn't have to be an occurrence rich or greatly strange.

Mulling over the distinctions that set me apart from my fellows, I think I have three that are perhaps noteworthy:

So far as I know, I am the only American who broke molar while chewing on a candy-bar during our military campaign in Tunisia in 1943.

So far as I know, I am the only husband in the United States whose wife calls him "Rover."

So far as I know, I am the only living human being who has been hit by a parked bridge in Missouri while riding in an auto, struck by a motorcycle while watching a parade in Paris, and run over by a horse-drawn milk wagon in Greenwich Village.

These may be odd claims to individual fame, but they helped make me me. What happened to make you you?

good, there is a great amount of travel on the highways. This often results in many people being killed in traffic accidents."

The Safety Officer pointed out that the January fatality toll will increase as late deaths, resulting from injuries received in traffic accidents last month, are reported.

"Although the Missouri traffic death count for January is not as high as that of last year," the Captain continued, "there is still quite a bit more motorists can do to improve their driving. For example, they can make it a habit to always sound their horn before passing and to signal their intentions for every stop or turn."

"Unless motorists buckle down and do a better job of driving, there is no telling how many lives will be lost in traffic by the end of the year," Captain Berglund concluded.

If you get a ticket, the officer didn't break the law. YOU DID!

FACE THE FACT There is one school of thought which thinks it would be a good idea to placate demands made by labor groups by increasing and broadening fringe benefits instead of raising wages.

This, should it become a common practice, would be a perfect example of taking money out of one pocket instead of another and calling it a saving.

For the payments made to labor, no matter what they are called or what their form, must all come out of the same till. And that till is represented by the buyers of the product or service involved.

Any increase in business costs, of which payments to labor are usually the largest part, will be inflationary unless accompanied by off-setting increases in productivity.

That increase may come from numbers of causes -- automation, improved machinery, more imaginative management, a more diligent and interested work force and so on. But it is absolutely essential to increase productivity if we are to pay labor more -- in the form of wages or fringe benefits -- and at the same time prevent further degradation of the dollar's buying power.

Three beatniks were standing on a corner. Suddenly a man and woman walked by with a little pet duck on a leash.

"You're both missin' it," announced the third beatnik. "Dig all them, looking down at the great and unbelievably busy floor of the exchange, gathered some understanding of how the world's most advanced economy operates."

tours of the New York Stock Exchange have been among the most popular in that city. The annual average has run to more than half a million visitors. And it is a unique and rewarding experience. They see, from a high gallery, the largest and most important securities market in the world in action. Adjacent to it are exhibits, established by a number of this country's leading companies, which give a vivid picture of just how free enterprise works, and what it accomplishes for the owner, the worker and the consumer.

Who comes to the exhibit hall and the gallery? The answer is, a cross-section of the great American public. In a recent one-day sampling, teachers were the best-represented occupational group, followed by engineers and housewives. But there were also a clergyman, a musician, an airline pilot, a pipe organ manufacturer, a policeman, a radio announcer, a scientist, a systems analyst, an upholsterer and a mortician. They came from just about everywhere -- 41 of the 50 states, as well as a lengthy list of foreign countries. And all of them, looking down at the great and unbelievably busy floor of the exchange, gathered some understanding of how the world's most advanced economy operates.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Some of the biggest corporations in America are now controlled by tax-exempt foundations which were established not so much to dispense charity as to dodge taxes.

This has been documented in such exhaustive detail by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., that President Johnson in his economic message last month called upon Congress "to deal with abuses of tax-exempt private foundations."

The most important reform, now taking shape inside the House Ways and Means Committee, would prohibit foundations from owning more than 20 per cent of any business. Patman believes this kind of tax-exempt ownership should be limited more drastically.

The big foundations are eager to block this and other reforms without appearing to do so, for they could lose their tax privileges if they were caught lobbying.

To help them out of their predicament, three congressmen suddenly have become busy in the Capitol cloakrooms doing the backstage buttonholing that the foundations are prohibited by law from doing.

These three helpful fellows are Howard Smith, D-Va., Chairman of the House Rules Committee; H. Allen Smith, R-Calif., top Republican on the Rules Committee; and James Utt, R-Calif., third-ranking Republican on the Ways and Means Committee.

All three hold key committee assignments, which put them in a position to throw roadblocks in the way of the proposed reforms. All three also are involved in business deals with tax-exempt foundations--a detail they have neglected to mention to colleagues whose votes they have solicited.

HIDDEN INTERESTS Howard Smith is chairman of the Alexandria National Bank, which is controlled by the International Bank. This, in turn, is controlled by George Olmsted, whose tax-exempt George Olmsted Foundation owns 17 per cent of the common voting stock.

H. Allen Smith has been trying to negotiate a real estate deal with the James Irvine Foundation, which controls a fabulous, 93,000-acre real estate empire in suburban Los Angeles.

In a letter to Mrs. Thurmond Clarke, mother of Joan Irvine Smith, biggest single stockholder in the Irvine property, the congressman has offered to intervene with the chief counsel in charge of investigating foundations and "do anything I can to assist."

"On another subject," he added with startling candor, "for the past year or two I have been trying to get started at Irvine, maybe building an office building, apartments, or other facilities. . . ."

"I simply wanted to mention this because I know that we could build in accordance with the regulations in a very outstanding manner, and if some opportunity opens up, we would certainly be interested."

Congressman Utt is even closer to the same Irvine Foundation, which controls 53 per cent of the voting stock of the Irvine Company. The Utt Development Company, founded by the Congressman's father, happens to be a subsidiary of the Irvine Company.

At a company barbecue several months ago, N. Loyall McLaren, president of the Irvine Foundation, introduced Utt to the 600 guests as "our friend who has come to our aid in Washington without being asked."

Apparently Utt, like the two Smiths, didn't need to be asked.

PAIN SCANDAL Tipped off that a bribe had been paid in connection with the painting of the Capitol dome, this column in 1954 dug into the Brotherhood of Painters,

Decorators and Paperhangers and printed an expose that led to the conviction of Robert Lowry, the local district head.

Ten years later, Lowry's cronies got back into control of the district council and began clamoring for his reinstatement. L. M. Raftery, the International president, turned them down flatly.

But he was succeeded last year by his son, S. Frank Raftery, who seems to be more benevolent toward union officials convicted of bribery. Though the district bylaws prohibit a felon from holding office, young Raftery ruled that Lowry is eligible to run for his old job.

Meanwhile, the FBI once again is investigating charges of payoffs and kickbacks in the Painters Union. A New York grand jury, which has been taking testimony on a multi-million-dollar paint contract scandal, is preparing to indict a union official accused of taking $800,000 in bribes since 1957.

Note: After young Raftery moved up to the presidency, the union organizers chipped in and bought him a sleek, new Fleetwood Cadillac.

GRATEFUL JUDGE U.S. District Judge Charles Metzner of New York is a member of the judiciary who doesn't forget old friends.

Back in the early days of the Eisenhower administration, Metzner served as assistant to Herbert Brownell, then attorney general. Later Brownell helped Metzner become a federal judge.

Last month Judge Metzner appointed his old friend and ex-boss, Brownell, as referee in the $145,000,000 dispute between Trans World Airlines and Howard Hughes. Brownell's chief problem will be to decide how much Hughes owes TWA. He will be entitled to a very handsome fee.

HUMANITARIAN? COMMUNISM

Those who sympathize with the humanitarian ideals professed by communists should ponder the effects of communist rule.

Next year will be the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution in Russia. Yet the Soviet government, after ten-five-year plans, finds it necessary to buy wheat from the despised capitalists of the United States, and is unable to pay for it. And our own leadership, for allegedly humanitarian reasons, allows the Kremlin to welsh on the debt.

Soviet communists, as usual with the history of all communal efforts, have failed to produce the foodstuff necessary to feed their people. They find another commodity which will bring in the money needed to support their tottering regime. Reaching the level of the pre-capitalist era in the Western world, the communists now resort to slave trading.

Selling human beings became a booming business in Marxist countries after a group of U.S. leftists indulged themselves in the "Tractors for Freedom" folly. This deal bogged down under irate opposition, but ransom in the form of medical supplies found less opposition, and eventually the United States was paying the bearded dictator huge sums for release of Bay of Pigs prisoners and just plain Cuban citizens. We have even paid him for sending spies he selected into our country.

The East German communists realized the potential of such trade, and they recently sold 2,600 political prisoners to West Germany for $10,000 a head. They are now working on a deal to sell some 2,000 children whose parents live outside the Iron Curtain. Extortion has proved so profitable that it may lead these humanitarians to seek new markets in the business of kidnapping. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

National G.O.P. Chief Zeros In On Labor Vote Confident He Can Swing It

Washington, D.C. -- When G.O.P. National Chairman Ray Bliss decided to "Bliss-Krieg" the labor leaders and stop their political pincer divisions this election year, he called on an official of Walter Reuther's auto union to brief the big city leaders on how to approach the labor vote and how to split up the Democratic-laborite coalition.

But Republicans everywhere should not dash for the nearest cardiograph. Bliss' labor specialist is a bright Republican himself, Tom LaFazio, now on the Reuther "T.F.P." (Technical, Office and Professional) staff, now unionizing the white collar "class."

Mr. LaFazio, a former New Jersey legislator and erstwhile defeated G.O.P. mayoralty candidate in Paterson, N. J., briefed the big city leaders here behind closed doors on Jan. 25. When Bliss runs other such training sessions in March and April for the party's traditionalists there will be other labor specialists.

Bliss, who doesn't take labor's rank and file as a personal insult, chuckled when this columnist inquired why he had raided Reuther's camp.

"I don't agree," said he, "that the labor leaders can deliver every labor vote or control every member of his union. There are millions of labor members in this country who vote their own convictions and are interested in good government. There is nothing inconsistent in this viewpoint and in being a union member."

"In the last election we won in their biggest strongholds--for Congressmen Ayers in my hometown, Akron; in Philadelphia, in New York and in a lot of other big industrial cities. And you don't win in those communities unless you have rank and file votes."

Bliss believes there is no better time than now to cut in on the Democratic labor coalition. The union chiefs are unhappy over the support they got in the Senate from their own Democratic allies during the war of 14-B.

The Republican chairman is right. The nation's top AFL-CIO leaders are in Bal Harbour now to turn their mid-winter Executive Council session into a political war parley.

To them, passage of the 14-B repeal of the ban on union shops was to be political symbolism. It would have marked the maturity of their political leaders and would have proven that their apprenticeship at politics was over and their Committee on Political Education machine was their masterpiece.

Now, one of them in intimate contact with Mr. Labor--George Meany--says that the union chiefs will "take a long look" at Democrats who have received automatic endorsement and support in money and manpower. And it will be a tough look in the agricultural states.

In the past, Democratic candidates with liberal backgrounds --and some not exceptionally so -- were automatically endorsed over the Republicans.

"Some of those Democrats can go to hell now," said another national labor policy maker, who had urged the AFL-CIO to call a one-day national strike in support of the 14-B repeal. "There will be more Republican endorsements or none at all. Democrats will need an active pro-labor record in addition to support of such legislation as medicare before we break our backs and banks for them."

Still another influential labor man said, "You can predict that Republican Senators Thurston Morton (Ky.) and Clifford Case (N. J.) will get labor support even if a Roosevelt, a Lehman or a Kennedy runs against them."

There is no resentment against President Johnson, but there is no one below him in the Democratic Party who is not clobbered by labor chiefs in cocktail conversations.

Those cocktail talks are filled with low spirits over the absence of Mr. Johnson's coat-tails in this fall's congressional election. Labor's professional, political strategists know that the anger over 14-B will cause many labor chiefs to sit on their hands and treasuries.

Without the coattails and without an all-out drive by the nation's labor leaders, it will be difficult to re-elect the big bloc of pro-labor freshmen Congressmen, including some who actually are union leaders on leave.

Fully aware of this, Ray Bliss is zeroing in on the labor vote. Though he says in effect there really is no such political animal, he's making very certain that the Republican big city leaders coming to each, ever-expanding conference, will be told by specialists how to swing the unionists away from their traditional allies.

WHAT IS THE ADVERTISING BUSINESS REALLY LIKE?

Advertising Recognition Week, February 13 thru 20, invites a tribute to an American phenomenon that is at once industry's way of telling us what's for sale, a stimulant to our freedom of choice in the market place, a catalyst to business, an influence on public taste and our way of life, and an underwriter of public communication in publishing, broadcasting and other fields.

Advertising does indeed serve these purposes, so vital to our American way of life. For all these things, we salute the advertising industry. We commend advertising, also, for recognizing one of its very real problems and taking the occasion of Advertising Recognition Week to launch a concentrated effort to do something about combatting the damaging fictional "Madison Avenue Image" portrayed by melodramatic movies and books.

Beginning this week the Advertising Association of the West and the Advertising Federation of America are beginning an advertising program to tell the story of the advertising business through the people who work in advertising jobs.

Directed primarily to young people, but simultaneously to parents and opinion leaders, the series shows how advertising careers offer intellectual challenge, opportunity for self-development, social significance and direct relationships to our national goals. It shows how advertising jobs reward creativity and imagination, how people can succeed in advertising, how they contribute to the advancement of the American society, and how they find satisfaction, excitement and fun working in advertising.

Newspaper people, who very well know and appreciate the difference between the real newsroom and that depicted in fiction, can understand the problems that advertising people are up against as they strive to correct public misunderstanding of the advertising business.

We wish them success in their efforts to show that fact can be as eloquent as fiction, or even more so.

The Colonel said: "Any man who says he understands his wife will lie about other things also."

THE HIGH PRICE OF DEBT

The American way of debt is built on easy credit. Merchants are quick to sell goods on time to almost anyone with a job. Should the accumulation of monthly payments become too heavy, there is always the friendly local finance company willing to "consolidate" the debts at an even higher rate of interest. Total consumer debt at the end of 1965--exclusive of mortgage debt--stood at nearly $86 billion--up $8 billion over a year earlier.

The overwhelming majority of American families manage to pay back their creditors. But a recent national survey shows that in 1965 an estimated 163,000 Americans had to go to court to declare themselves personally bankrupt. This is about 5 per cent more than the previous year. A bankruptcy referee in Portland, Oregon, declared: "Consumers buy without counting the ultimate cost. They never learn the lesson that the longer you pay the more you pay."

Truth-in-lending legislation now before the Congress would make it somewhat easier for the consumer to count the cost. Lenders would be required to disclose in advance the actual amount of a borrower's commitment and the actual annual rate of interest he must pay. President Johnson has called for enactment of this legislation three times in the last three years. But it never has reached the floor of either Senate or House.

No federal or state law can protect the compulsive buyer whose inability to say "no" to salesmen results in consumer debt totaling three or four times his annual salary. And it will be argued that the individual and his creditors are the only ones who should decide what the limits on debt and interest should be. Still, the fact that personal bankruptcies have increased for the last 13 years in a row--the last five of them in a period of economic boom--raises issues that involve the well-being of the nation as a whole.

More than 25,000 infants will be born this year with cerebral palsy, according to the United Cerebral Palsy Association.

President Lyndon B. Johnson makes it appear that all of his critics on Viet Nam war policy actually agree with him. It's the way of the consensus.

It is true that there are shades of differences but the positions--contrary to what he would have the American people believe--are different.

It is true that the war is not a popular one if any conflict can be said to be popular. The involvement is annoying, costly, too often fatal, and no satisfactory outcome has ever been held up to the American people.

Some of the alternatives to abandoning the war, however, are not pretty--loss of face in Asia, if not the world, permitting the Communists to conquer one more nation and abandonment of an ally.

The final result is mentioned last deliberately. It may be that the Vietnamese don't actually want Communist rule but they are an indifferent people to their form of government, more interested in avoiding starvation and probably incapable of governing themselves alone. There is no reason to believe that pacification will fare any better than other forms of foreign aid offered by this country, a program marked by waste and failure.

There is substantial agreement, however reluctant, that the United States should not abandon Viet Nam.

From here the real controversy begins. There are those who would not escalate the war. There are those who want our planes to bomb more, especially real military targets or sources of military supply--among them Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, a recent visitor to the war zone--and those who want our troops only to defend what they now hold. There are a million and one ideas for waging a peace offensive. Most of them appear to have been tried and to have proved to be futile.

A big question mark is Red China. There is plenty of stewing as well as just pondering about what the Chinese will do.

In this respect, this country's Korean experience is fresh enough in our memories to be reviewed at least briefly.

In Korea this country by its own volition confined itself to a ground war. It did not pursue the enemy beyond a certain point.

What was the effect?

To give the Chinese a privileged sanctuary, where unmolested by enemy military action, they could build a force of sufficient size and with enough power to clobber our troops and to force them into retreat.

We do not believe that our interests can best be served by trying to appease Red China or any of the elements in control of North Viet Nam. It would be a sign of weakness.

We'll leave to the military experts how much bombing should be done in North Viet Nam. We are confident the need should be based on protecting the lives and safety of our troops in Viet Nam and not on any fear of what Red China might do.

Bombing of North Viet Nam is necessary. It should not be stopped. It probably should be increased with more rather than less or the same military targets the object of strikes by American planes.

It is all right to debate the issues at home but let's speak in Viet Nam with guns--the only language that the Communists understand and will heed.

We wonder why when we drive up to a street intersection that has a left turn lane and wave the car across the street to go ahead of us they look at us as if we were crazy. Some times we think ourselves that maybe we could be just a little nutty to show any consideration for a fellow motorist.

The Missouri Highway Patrol reports that 102 people were killed in traffic during the month of January.

The toll was the second highest ever recorded for January. The worst record for the first month of the year was in 1965 when 126 lives were lost in traffic. For the past five years, 438 people have been killed in Missouri during January.

This year's January traffic toll included 32 lives lost in 14 multiple death accidents. Ten pedestrians were killed last month, five each in the urban and rural areas of the State. All but two of the walking victims were 50 years of age or over.

Captain John A. Berglund, of the Patrol's Safety Division, stated that the relatively mild weather experienced in January may have accounted for the high number of traffic fatalities. He said, "When the weather is

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) -- The most saving grace of man's desire to be different.

We live in an age of mass conformity. But no matter how meek and obedient to patterns and programs we all may be, each one of us has a secret passion against anonymity.

If you become well enough acquainted with any person, you will find he cherishes some fact of distinction that yields him separate identity. It is a very human need.

For example, once I met a man of late middle years who, while reminiscing, remarked he had turned in two fire alarms during his life.

"What's so unusual about that?" one of his listeners asked.

"Well," said the man, "have you ever met anyone else who has turned in two fire alarms?"

His point was obvious. Most people are born, married, raise a family, pay off a mortgage, and die without ever having to turn in even one fire alarm.

Some people become stand-outs on purpose. Like Alexander the Great, they conquer the world. Or they sell a refrigerator to an Eskimo.

Those are deliberate means of distinction. They win immortality or brief notoriety by great deeds or freak performances that catch the long admiration or short-lived attention of mankind.

William Shakespeare, naturally, will be remembered as long as the English language is.

Turning to the other category, perhaps the name of Philip Yazzik already has faded from your memory. But in Chicago on April 25, 1955, Yazzik accomplished the record feat of consuming 77 hamburgers at one sitting.

But whether he seeks or avoids the glare of the lime-light, a man can always find something in his life that lifts him from the dead level of the commonplace. Something has happened to him somewhere along the way that makes him different.

And the difference doesn't have to be an occurrence rich or greatly strange.

Mulling over the distinctions that set me apart from my fellows, I think I have three that are perhaps noteworthy:

So far as I know, I am the only American who broke molar while chewing on a candy-bar during our military campaign in Tunisia in 1943.

So far as I know, I am the only husband in the United States whose wife calls him "Rover."

So far as I know, I am the only living human being who has been hit by a parked bridge in Missouri while riding in an auto, struck by a motorcycle while watching a parade in Paris, and run over by a horse-drawn milk wagon in Greenwich Village.

These may be odd claims to individual fame, but they helped make me me. What happened to make you you?

good, there is a great amount of travel on the highways. This often results in many people being killed in traffic accidents.

The Safety Officer pointed out that the January fatality toll will increase as late deaths, resulting from injuries received in traffic accidents last month, are reported.

"Although the Missouri traffic death count for January is not as high as that of last year," the Captain continued, "there is still quite a bit of motorists can do to improve their driving. For example, they can make it a habit to always sound their horn before passing and to signal their intentions for every stop or turn."

"Unless motorists buckle down and do a better job of driving, there is no telling how many lives will be lost in traffic by the end of the year," Captain Berglund concluded.

If you get a ticket, the officer didn't break the law. YOU DID!

FACE THE FACT

There is one school of thought which thinks it would be a good idea to placate demands made by labor groups by increasing and broadening fringe benefits instead of raising wages.

This, should it become a common practice, would be a perfect example of taking money out of one pocket instead of another and calling it a saving. For the payments made to labor, no matter what they are called or what their form, must all come out of the same till. And that till is represented by the buyers of the product or service involved.

Any increase in business costs, of which payments to labor are usually the largest part, will be inflationary unless accompanied by off-setting increases in productivity.

That increase may come from numbers of causes -- automation, improved machinery, more imaginative management, a more diligent and interested work force and so on. But it is absolutely essential to increase productivity if we are to pay labor more -- in the form of wages or fringe benefits -- and at the same time prevent further degradation of the dollar's buying power.

Three beatniks were standing on a corner. Suddenly a man and woman walked by with a little pet duck on a leash.

"Dig the suit on that cat," said the first beatnik.

"Yeah," enthused the second beatnik. "And look at the gorgeous girl he's with." "You're both missin' it," announced the third beatnik. "Dig the wild shoes on the kid!"

I admit I'm a little tight, but I know a character who actually won't take out burial expense insurance for fear he might die at sea somewhere.

A PLACE TO VISIT For a period of many years, tours of the New York Stock Exchange have been among the most popular in that vast city. The annual average has run to more than half a million visitors. And it is a unique and rewarding experience. They see, from a high gallery, the largest and most important securities market in the world in action. Adjacent to it are exhibits, established by a number of this country's leading companies, which give a vivid picture of just how free enterprise works, and what it accomplishes for the owner, the worker and the consumer.

Who comes to the exhibit hall and the gallery? The answer is, a cross-section of the great American public. In a recent one-day sampling, teachers were the best-represented occupational group, followed by engineers and housewives. But there were also a clergyman, a musician, an airline pilot, a pipe organ manufacturer, a policeman, a radio announcer, a scientist, a systems analyst, an upholsterer and a mortician. They came from just about everywhere -- 41 of the 50 states, as well as a lengthy list of foreign countries. And all of them, looking down at the great and unbelievably busy floor of the exchange, gathered some understanding of how the world's most advanced economic system operates.

This year, beyond doubt, the crowds will be far greater than ever, and preparations have been made to accommodate

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Some of the biggest corporations in America are now controlled by tax-exempt foundations which were established not so much to disburse charity as to dodge taxes.

This has been documented in such exhaustive detail by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., that President Johnson in his economic message last month called upon Congress "to deal with abuses of tax-exempt private foundations."

The most important reform, now taking shape inside the House Ways and Means Committee, would prohibit foundations from owning more than 20 per cent of any business. Patman believes this kind of tax-exempt ownership should be limited more drastically.

The big foundations are eager to block this and other reforms without appearing to do so, for they could lose their tax privileges if they were caught lobbying.

To help them out of their predicament, three congressmen suddenly have become busy in the Capitol cloakrooms doing the backstage buttonholing that the foundations are prohibited by law from doing.

These three helpful fellows are Howard Smith, D-Va., Chairman of the House Rules Committee; H. Allen Smith, R-Calif., top Republican on the Rules Committee; and James Utt, R-Calif., third-ranking Republican on the Ways and Means Committee.

All three hold key committee assignments, which put them in a position to throw roadblocks in the way of the proposed reforms. All three also are involved in business deals with tax-exempt foundations--a detail they have neglected to mention to colleagues whose votes they have solicited.

HIDDEN INTERESTS Howard Smith is chairman of the Alexandria National Bank, which is controlled by the International Bank. This, in turn, is controlled by George Olmsted, whose tax-exempt George Olmsted Foundation owns 17 per cent of the common voting stock.

H. Allen Smith has been trying to negotiate a real estate deal with the James Irvine Foundation, which controls a fabulous, 93,000-acre real estate empire in suburban Los Angeles.

In a letter to Mrs. Thurmond Clarke, mother of Joan Irvine Smith, biggest single stockholder in the Irvine property, the congressman has offered to intervene with the chief counsel in charge of investigating foundations and "do anything I can to assist."

"On another subject," he added with startling candor, "for the past year or two I have been trying to get started at Irvine, maybe building an office building, apartments, or other facilities."

"I simply wanted to mention this because I know that we could build in accordance with the regulations in a very outstanding manner, and if some opportunity opens up, we would certainly be interested."

Congressman Utt is even closer to the same Irvine Foundation, which controls 53 per cent of the voting stock of the Irvine Company. The Utt Development Company, founded by the Congressman's father, happens to be a subsidiary of the Irvine Company.

At a company barbecue several months ago, N. Loyall McLaren, president of the Irvine Foundation, introduced Utt to the 600 guests as "our friend who has come to our aid in Washington without being asked."

Apparently Utt, like the two Smiths, didn't need to be asked.

Tipped off that a bribe had been paid in connection with the painting of the Capitol dome, this column in 1954 dug into the Brotherhood of Painters,

Decorators and Paperhangers and printed an expose that led to the conviction of Robert Lowry, the local district head.

Ten years later, Lowry's cronies got back into control of the district council and began clamoring for his reinstatement. L. M. Raftery, the International president, turned them down flatly.

But he was succeeded last year by his son, S. Frank Raftery, who seems to be more benevolent toward union officials convicted of bribery. Though the district bylaws prohibit a felon from holding office, young Raftery ruled that Lowry is eligible to run for his old job.

Meanwhile, the FBI once again is investigating charges of pay-offs and kickbacks in the Painters Union. A New York grand jury, which has been taking testimony on a multi-million-dollar paint contract scandal, is preparing to indict a union official accused of taking $800,000 in bribes since 1957.

Note: After young Raftery moved up to the presidency, the union organizers chipped in and bought him a sleek, new Fleetwood Cadillac.

GRATEFUL JUDGE U.S. District Judge Charles Metzner of New York is a member of the judiciary who doesn't forget old friends.

Back in the early days of the Eisenhower administration, Metzner served as assistant to Herbert Brownell, then attorney general. Later Brownell helped Metzner become a federal judge.

Last month Judge Metzner appointed his old friend and ex-boss, Brownell, as referee in the $145,000,000 dispute between Trans World Airlines and Howard Hughes. Brownell's chief problem will be to decide how much Hughes owes TWA. He will be entitled to a very handsome fee.

Mrs. Keith Collins To Be Fashion Commentator

An all cotton fashion show, featuring 1966 fabrics and patterns for round-the-clock wear, will be presented by the Coalesce Club Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion Hall. Following the fashion show there will be a card party. The "Cavalcade of Cottons" collection is a loan service offered by the National Cotton Council and a pattern company to emphasize the versatility of home sewing. It represents the season's trends in color, fabric and silhouette. The wardrobe includes casual clothes, tailored suits and coats, late day dresses and children's costumes. Final plans for the show have been announced by the co-chairmen Mrs. Mark Weston and Mrs. Gordon Beaver. The commentator will be Mrs. Keith Collins and music will be provided by Gordon Beaver. Door and table prizes will be given. Dessert and coffee will be served by club members. The fashion show and card

Area Scouts To Attend Conference

Sikeston Girl Scouts are acting as hostesses Saturday and Sunday for the annual Senior Girl Scout Conference of the Cotton Boll Council. Approximately 150 girls from towns including Kennett, Charleston, Bloomfield, Steele, Matthews, New Madrid, and Poplarville will be registering at 10 a.m. at the First Christian church. Guests other than those appearing on the program will be from Cape Girardeau, in the Otate Council.

Serving as chairman for the conference is Mrs. Gene Nunnelee aided by troop leaders, parents and friends, many of whom will also be keeping girls in their homes overnight. Shortly after registration and a get-acquainted period with hot chocolate and singing, Miss Ann Hicklin, president of the Senior planning board, will give her welcome and introduce the guest speaker, the Rev. Harold Nance of Flat River. Known for his humor and ability to entertain, Rev. Nance will center his remarks on the conference theme Happiness.

Following a movie and sack lunch, further aids to the Happiness theme will be by Mrs. L. M. Standley, talking on adventure, and Mrs. Ernest Harper and Mrs. Frank Merkle on vacationing. Mrs. Merkle will also entertain with folk music during a break. To close the afternoon session, Troop No. 15 will present a melodrama "Cast Up By The Sea" directed by Mrs. Charles Blanton III.

Cherries In Good Supply

NEW YORK AP - There will be plenty of red tart cherries for Washington's birthday but little tuna fish for Lent in the nation's food stores this weekend. Canned and frozen red tart cherries are plentiful. Tuna supplies, however, have been cut by poor catches. Prices are high -- but so are prices for meat and poultry. Meat prices are expected to rise slightly during the next few months and then level off and decline late this year. Sugar prices advanced last weekend, and Agriculture Department stepped in this week to halt them. It increased the amount of sugar that can be imported to the United States. Potato supplies are much larger than last year. Sweet potatoes, onions, tomatoes and grapes also are readily available in most areas. But supplies of avocados, cauliflowers, cucumbers, squash and lettuce have been curtailed by bad weather. In the canned and frozen fruit departments, there are fairly good supplies of apples, applesauce, apricots, red cherries, purple plums, blackberries and raspberries.

James Yarbrough Celebrates 7th Birthday Feb. 6

Conference games remaining to be played:

Oran at Scott Central tonight, Kelly at St. Henry's Friday, East Prairie at Delta Friday.

Clay's Draft Board To Meet Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky. AP - Cassius Clay, an extraordinary young man, faced today what millions of ordinary young men face on other days: a possible call to arms through the military draft.

Clay's draft board, Local Board, Local Board 47, was to meet, with Clay's name among those expected to be reclassified 1-A, the top classification level. Clay currently is draft exempt, with a 1-Y rating.

Should he be reclassified, Clay's name would go on the list of those eligible to satisfy Louisville's March draft quota, as yet unassigned.

J. Allen Sherman, chairman of the local board, said Clay's name would be near the top, since he is 24 years old and unmarried. Sherman implied Clay would be called when the quota is reached.

Clay twice was rejected because he failed to make passing grades on the draft's mental examinations. The standards since have been lowered below Clay's level, because of manpower demands of the Viet Nam conflict.

Howardville Ends Season With Win

HOWARDVILLE - With a total of 60 fouls called on both teams and perhaps one of the longest games of the year, Howardville smashed visiting Miles high school of Tiptonville, Tenn., here last night 119-84 in the "A" contest while the junior Hawks handed Miles a 81-76 beating in the "B" game.

Howardville, led by six players in double figures with Samelton leading the way with 20 points, the Hawks faced to a 29-12 first period lead.

Limes McFerren, Hawk playmaker scored 21 points and was credited with 21 assist and only played the last half of the game.

Anderson and Jinks dominated the rebounding for the Hawks as they combined for a total of 45 rebounds with Anderson taking in 22 and Jinks 23.

Pounds led the Miles quintet in the scoring column as he collected 29 points and pulled down 15 rebounds.

Howardville ended their regular season of play with a 24-1 record, the Hawks going to the regional tournament Tuesday night at Hayti against Hayti Central.

Score by quarters:

Howardville 29 19 38 33 Miles 12 28 18 25

Cardinals To Be Flying More And Enjoying It

The Cardinals will be flying more and enjoying it more, too, in 1966, according to an announcement today by General Manager Bob Howsam.

The Red Birds will travel 33,518 air miles in 1966 in pursuit of the National League pennant, and spend 102 hours and 45 minutes doing it, according to information furnished by Traveling Secretary Leo Ward.

In all there will be 46 flights, of which 42 will be charters by United Airlines. The other four flights will be regularly scheduled commercial air moves by Trans-World Airlines.

The reason the Cardinals will be enjoying it more is that they have more jet flights than ever before. The four TWA flights are by jet, as are 16 of the United Trips. The United jet trips will be made via Caravels, a two-engine airplane.

The four TWA flights are to and from the West Coast from San Francisco to St. Louis on May 1 and July 6, from St. Louis to Los Angeles on June 30, and from St. Louis to San Francisco on August 15.

The Red Birds will travel 31,593 miles during the regular season and 1,925 in spring training, which includes a trip from St. Petersburg, Florida, their training base, to game at Vero Beach, Florida, and to Kansas City for pre-season series.

And, oh yes, there's one bus trip - from Philadelphia to New York on June 12. On that short a trip, you see, the bus is faster than the airplane.

Cardinals Sign Strikeout Pitcher

The Cardinals have signed a left-handed strikeout pitcher, John Cumberland of Westbrook, Maine, to a 1966 Rock Hill, South Carolina, contract, it was announced today by Director of Scouts George Silvey.

Cumberland, an 18-year-old, fanned 134 in 80 innings last season at Westbrook High School, and led American Legion pitchers in the state of Maine with an average of 14 strikeouts per game. In the state league finals, he fanned 21, pitched a two-hit shutout and was voted the Most Valuable Player.

His four-year high school record was 20 victories, four defeats, according to Scout Jeff Jones, who credits him with a fine fast ball.

Southern Illinois Accepts Invitation

KANSAS CITY AP - Southern Illinois, the nation's No. 1 ranked college division basketball team, accepted today an invitation to play in the college division championship of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

At the same time, it was announced that Southern Illinois will play host to the Great Lakes regional tournament, March 4-5.

Southern Illinois, which lost to Evansville 82-85 in overtime in last year's national final, has a 16-3 record with four games left on its schedule. The Salukis have road games against Indiana State, Oklahoma State and Wichita State and a home game with Evansville.

Fishing Facts

Bass Streams Closed

JEFFERSON CITY -- Missouri bass fishermen will want to remember at this time of the year that the state's one, limited closed season on bass starts March 1. The season reopens May 29.

The closed season applies only to black bass in some southern Missouri streams. Bass fishing is legal throughout the year in impoundments and in all other streams of Missouri. In fact, there are no other closed fishing seasons in Missouri, except on special management areas or for certain unusual fishing methods, like snagging.

The area in which bass fishing will be closed for about three months is south of the Missouri river and north and west of the southeast Missouri lowlands. The southeast boundary of the closed area is described in the regulation as "beginning at the north bank of the Diversion Canal in Cape Girardeau County and following the Canal southward to Missouri Highway 25 bridge; thence southward along Missouri Highway 25 to the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad; thence southward along the railroad to the Arkansas State line."

Trout Anglers

JEFFERSON CITY -- March 1 is drawing near.

If you don't understand that cryptic warning, forget it. You aren't a trout fisherman. If you do, you really don't need the warning -- you are already busy getting your trout-fishing tackle ready for the annual "opening."

It has been said that genuine trout fishermen would not want a year-round open season in the trout parks. They enjoy opening day too much for that, and look forward to it most of the year.

Opening day does, of course, legally affect only the four intensively managed trout areas, Bennett Spring, Roaring River and Montauk State Parks and Maramec Spring Park operated by the James Foundation.

There is no closed season at Lake Taneycomo, Missouri's nationally famous trout fishery in Taney County. Nevertheless, opening day will find the lake crowded with anglers who regard March 1 as sacred and enjoy "opening the season" so much that they establish an artificial opening. Taneycomo will be heavily stocked for this year's "opening," with thousands of trout from U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service hatcheries as well as 20,000 from Conservation Department hatcheries.

The streams in all four trout parks are expected to be in excellent condition for the opening, with heavy rains in mid-February raising the water levels at Roaring River and Bennett Spring, where the additional water has been cleaned out and deepened in time for the opening.

Among other improvements are a new lodge at Montauk State Park and new raceways at Maramec Park.

All four trout parks will have some extra lunkers in the streams for this opening. A large number of brood trout, fish too old for brood purposes, have been moved from the Shepherd of the Hills Hatchery and released in Montauk, Roaring River and Maramec Spring. Bennett Spring already had a number of these whoppers. The brood fish will go from five to eight pounds.

Some will be caught opening day.

Farm Forester

FARMINGTON -- Wildlife and forestry management is, first of all, people management. Conservationists recognize this. That's why, when Farm Forester Arlen Allmon got to reflecting on his job he sent this report to his Jefferson City office.

"Reports cause one to dig back into memories of constructive endeavor, touch them up, color them Christmas, and tell what he knows are sincere thoughts about his job."

"For example, there are two boy scouts that have visited this office regularly on Wednesdays for the last six weeks. They are working on their Forestry merit badge. They have been 'put through the mill' because this way they will appreciate what they learn. This badge means all the world to one of them because it means the Eagle award. We have become quite close as a result."

"Take the case of the 12-year-old boy. He had a duck he had nursed back to health but was dubious about the species. After a good hour of file work and two phone calls, we found out what it was. Every day now that the office is open, he stops in and says hello."

"Then there was the time when a terribly worried party phoned to find out why her favorite and aged maple was dying. Naturally, she lived just beyond forever, so a date had to be set up. This finally turned out to be one day after five. She felt bad about the late hours and inconvenience she had caused. The tree will soon die of just plain old age. This hurt but she still sent a Christmas card."

"All these things will get a friendly wave and hello. Sleep comes easy then."

Small College Top Ten Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cheyney State of Pennsylvania has rushed toward the top of the small-college Top Ten basketball rankings, but Southern Illinois still holds a slim lead.

Each team received three of the 13 first-place votes, but Southern Illinois, 14-4, maintained its lead by drawing 97 points over a all to 92 for Cheyney State, the only unbeaten small-college team in the country.

The Salukis' first-place margin was cut by their 65-61 loss last week to Tennessee State, which climbed from ninth to seventh in the rankings. Cheyney State, on the other hand, increased its record to 22-0 with victories over Mansfield and East Stroudsburg.

Voting in the poll was based on games through last Saturday.

Cheyney, third last week, changed places with Grambling, 17-3, which split in two games last week.

The Top Ten, with records through Saturday, and points:

1. Southern Ill. 14-4	97
2. Cheyney State 22-0	92
3. Grambling 17-3	69
4. North Dakota 19-3	66
5. North Mich. 14-3	59
6. Youngstown 16-1	53
7. Tenn. State 17-2	43
8. Evansville 15-6	33
9. Indiana State 20-3	31
10. Seattle Pacific 19-3	28

Symbol of SERVICE

A cold day, and a gas meter!

A gas meter.

Our engineers love 'em. Because they're mechanical masterpieces...registering to the Nth degree of accuracy, each cubic foot of this vital fuel.

Our accountants adore them. Because they're our cash registers...telling us the exact amount at which each bill should be figured.

To our customers they might well represent a sign of warmth and comfort.

Or, perhaps, the millions of dollars invested in pipelines and other facilities required to keep gas service constant and dependable...the men and women who are on the job around-the-clock to make as sure as humanly possible, that little blue flame never flickers or fails.

Perhaps when you read this, or when you come in to pay your gas bill, the weather will be warmer.

But even then, we hope you'll still remember the colder-than-usual weather we've been having...and this gas meter--our "symbol of service" to you.

Remember, too, that the little "hum" you hear when you're near your meter not only adds a few pennies to your gas bill, but, also, adds so much to the comfort of your happy home.

Clay's Draft Board To Meet Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky. AP - Casius Clay, an extraordinary young man, faced today what millions of ordinary young men face on other days: a possible call to arms through the military draft.

Clay's draft board, Local Board, Local Board 47, was to meet, with Clay's name among those expected to be reclassified 1-A, the top classification level. Clay currently is draft exempt, with a 1-Y rating.

Should he be reclassified, Clay's name would go on the list of those eligible to satisfy Louisville's March draft quota, as yet unassigned.

J. Allen Sherman, chairman of the local board, said Clay's name would be near the top, since he is 24 years old and unmarried. Sherman implied Clay would be called when the quota is received.

Clay twice was rejected because he failed to make passing grades on the draft's mental examinations. The standards since have been lowered below Clay's level, because of manpower demands of the Viet Nam conflict.

Howardville Ends Season With Win

HOWARDVILLE - With a total of 60 fouls called on both teams and perhaps one of the longest games of the year, Howardville smashed visiting Miles high school of Tiptonville, Tenn., here last night 119-84 in the "A" contest while the junior Hawks handed Miles a 81-76 beating in the "B" game.

Howardville, led by six players in double figures with Samelton leading the way with 20 points, the Hawks raced to a 29-12 first period lead. Linnes McFerren, Hawk playmaker scored 18 points and was credited with 21 assist and only played the last half of the game.

Anderson and Jinkins dominated the rebounding for the Hawks as they combined for a total of 45 rebounds with Anderson taking in 22 and Jinkins 23.

Pounds led the Miles quintet in the scoring column as he collected 29 points and pulled down 15 rebounds.

Howardville ended their regular season of play with a 24- record, the Hawks going into the regional tournament Tuesday night at Hayti against Hayti Central.

Score by quarters:

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	Total
Howardville	29	19	38	33	119
Miles	12	28	18	25	83

Cardinals To Be Flying More And Enjoying It

The Cardinals will be flying more and enjoying it more, too, in 1966, according to an announcement today by General Manager Bob Howsam.

The Red Birds will travel 33,518 air miles in 1966 in pursuit of the National League pennant, and spend 102 hours and 45 minutes doing it, according to information furnished by Traveling Secretary Leo Ward.

In all there will be 46 flights, of which 42 will be charters by United Airlines. The other four flights will be regularly scheduled commercial air moves by Trans World Airlines.

The reason the Cardinals will be enjoying it more is that they have more jet flights than ever before. The four TWA flights are by Jet, as are 16 of the United Trips. The United jet trips will be made via Caravels, a two-engine airplane.

The four TWA flights are to and from the West Coast from San Francisco to St. Louis on May 1 and July 6, from St. Louis to Los Angeles on June 30, and from St. Louis to San Francisco on August 15.

The Red Birds will travel 31,593 miles during the regular season and 1,925 in spring training, which includes a trip from St. Petersburg, Florida, their training base, to a game at Vero Beach, Florida, and to Kansas City for pre-season series.

And, oh yes, there's one bus trip from Philadelphia to New York on June 12. On that short a trip, you see, the bus is faster than the airplane.

Fishing Facts

Bass Streams Closed

JEFFERSON CITY -- Missouri bass fishermen will want to remember at this time of the year that the state's one, limited closed season on bass starts March 1. The season reopens May 29.

The closed season applies only to black bass in some southern Missouri streams. Bass fishing is legal throughout the year in impoundments and in all other streams of Missouri. In fact, there are no other closed fishing seasons in Missouri, except on special management areas or for certain unusual fishing methods, like snagging.

The area in which bass fishing will be closed for about three months is south of the Missouri river and north and west of the southeast Missouri lowlands. The southeast boundary of the closed area is described in the regulation as "beginning at the north bank of the Diversion Canal in Cape Girardeau County and following the Canal southward to Missouri Highway 25 bridge; thence southward along Missouri Highway 25 to the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad; thence southward along the railroad to the Arkansas State line."

Trout Anglers

JEFFERSON CITY -- March 1 is drawing near.

If you don't understand that cryptic warning, forget it. You aren't a trout fisherman.

If you do, you really don't need the warning -- you are already busy getting your trout-fishing tackle ready for the annual "opening."

It has been said that genuine trout fishermen would not want a year-round open season in the trout parks. They enjoy opening day too much for that, and look forward to it most of the year.

Opening day does, of course, legally affect only the four intensively managed trout areas, Bennett Spring, Roaring River and Montauk State Parks and Maramec Spring Park operated by the James Foundation.

There is no closed season at Lake Taneycomo, Missouri's nationally-famous trout fishery in Taney County. Nevertheless, opening day will find the lake crowded with anglers who regard March 1 as sacred and enjoy "opening the season" so much that they establish an artificial opening. Taneycomo will be heavily stocked for this year's "opening," with thousands of trout from U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service hatcheries as well as 20,000 from Conservation Department hatcheries.

The streams in all four trout parks are expected to be in excellent condition for the opening, with heavy rains in mid-February raising the water levels at Roaring River and Bennett Spring, where the additional water was welcome. Roaring River has been cleaned out and deepened in time for the opening.

Among other improvements are a new lodge at Montauk State Park and new raceways at Maramec Park.

All four trout parks will have some extra lunkers in the streams for this opening. A large number of brood trout, fish too old for brood purposes, have been moved from the Shepherd of the Hills Hatchery and released in Montauk, Roaring River and Maramec Spring. Bennett Spring already had a number of these whoppers. The brood fish will go from five to eight pounds.

Some will be caught opening day.

Wisconsin's Antitrust Suit

MILWAUKEE AP -- The defense has won a point and lost another in Wisconsin's antitrust suit against the Braves and the National League.

Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller ruled Wednesday that Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette must submit to questioning by the defense. But he rejected a defense motion that the issues to be argued be narrowed before the case goes to trial.

The trial is scheduled to begin Feb. 28 before Roller.

Defense attorneys had ordered La Follette to appear for pre-trial testimony last week. They also asked that he produce a list of 44 documents related to the case.

The state appealed to Roller to cancel La Follette's appearance, arguing that his only connection to the case involved his role as attorney general. La Follette objected to the demand for the documents as a stalling tactic.

While ordering La Follette to submit to questioning, Roller declined to order him to produce all the requested documents. The judge said he would rule on the documents separately as challenges arise.

Roller refused to narrow the issues in the case on grounds that the defense motion came too late.

Cardinals Sign Strikeout Pitcher

The Cardinals have signed a left-handed strikeout pitcher, John Cumberland of Westbrook, Maine, to a 1966 Rock Hill, South Carolina, contract. It was announced today by Director of Scouts George Silvey.

Cumberland, an 18-year-old, fanned 134 in 80 innings last season at Westbrook High School, and led American Legion pitchers in the state of Maine with an average of 14 strikeouts per game. In the state league finals, he fanned 21, pitched a two-hit shutout and was voted the Most Valuable Player.

His four-year high school record was 20 victories, four defeats, according to Scout Jeff Jones, who credits him with a fine fast ball.

Southern Illinois Accepts Invitation

KANSAS CITY AP -- Southern Illinois, the nation's No. 1 ranked college division basketball team, accepted today an invitation to play in the college division championship of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

At the same time, it was announced that Southern Illinois will play host to the Great Lakes regional tournament, March 4-5.

Southern Illinois, which lost to Evansville 82-85 in overtime in last year's national final, has a 16-3 record with four games left on its schedule.

The Salukis have road games against Indiana State, Oklahoma State and Wichita State and a home game with Evansville.

Symbol of SERVICE

A cold day, and a gas meter!
A gas meter.

Our engineers love 'em. Because they're mechanical masterpieces...registering to the Nth degree of accuracy, each cubic foot of this vital fuel.

Our accountants adore them. Because they're our cash register...telling us the exact amount at which each bill should be figured.

To our customers they might well represent a sign of warmth and comfort.

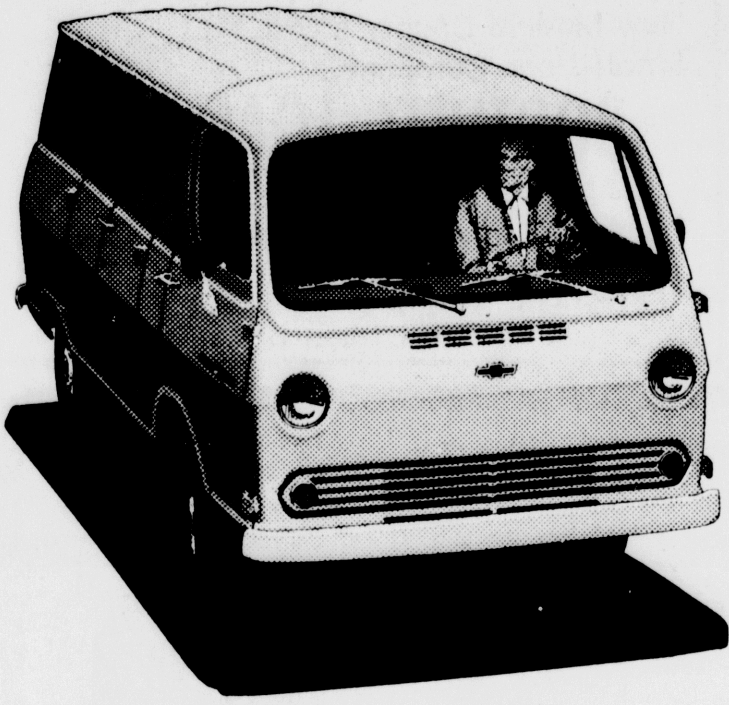

Or, perhaps, the millions of dollars invested in pipelines and other facilities required to keep gas service constant and dependable...the men and women who are on the job around-the-clock to make as sure as humanly possible, that little blue flame never flickers or fails.

Perhaps when you read this, or when you come in to pay your gas bill, the weather will be warmer.

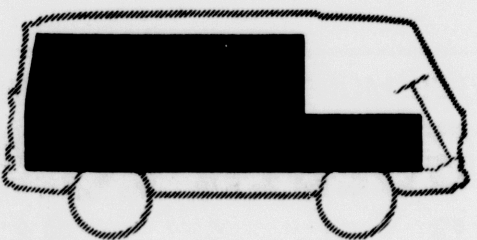

But even then, we hope you'll still remember the colder-than-usual weather we've been having...and this gas meter--our "symbol of service" to you.

Remember, too, that the little "hum" you hear when you're near your meter not only adds a few pennies to your gas bill, but, also, adds so much to the comfort of your happy home.

Adam J. Halter Dies Wednesday

CHAFFEE -- Adam J. Halter, 74 years old, of Chaffee, a retired store proprietor and butcher, died Wednesday at a Cape Girardeau hospital. He had been a hospital patient since Feb. 7.

Halter was born Nov. 17, 1891, at New Hamburg and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Halter. He married Lulu Unnerstall of New Hamburg; she died in 1920. On Nov. 4, 1925, he married Mrs. Angie Morgan, who survives.

He belonged to the Twenty Sportsmen's club, as a charter member, and was a member of the St. Ambrose Catholic Parish.

He was a butcher or store owner for over 45 years in Chaffee, and retired in 1959.

Surviving besides Mrs. Halter are a daughter, Mrs. Raymond Pfefferkorn, Oran; a son, Harry Halter, East St. Louis, Ill.; two stepsons, Norman and Woodrow Morgan, St. Louis; a brother, Paul Halter, Oran; a sister, Mrs. Frank Legrand, Jackson; 10 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The body is at the Bisplinghoff Funeral Home and the parish rosary will be said at the funeral home at 8 p.m. Thursday. Funeral Mass will be at St. Ambrose Church at 9 a.m. Friday by the Rev. Phillip Bucher. Burial will be at Union Park cemetery.

Actor Gerst To Appear in Cape Play

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Larr, Gerst, a professional actor and artist in residence, will play Sir Thomas More in South-east Missouri State College Theater's production, "A Man For All Seasons." Gerst will be sitting in on theater classes and conducting seminars for theater students at the college.

Other cast members, all students, are: David Walker, Scott City; Charles Dockins, Marsha Reissaus, and Vicky Roth, all of Cape Girardeau; Kenneth Mettifer, Rich Hunter, Jerry Schaffer, and Helen Huth, all of St. Louis; Gary Robertson and Bob Yowell, both of Jennings; Neal Graham of DeSoto; Jerry Radloff of St. Ann; and Dale Emery of Oran.

Salant Takes Friendly's Place

NEW YORK AP -- The Columbia Broadcasting System has named Richard S. Salant as acting president of its news division.

Salant, 51, succeeds Fred W. Friendly, 50, who resigned Wednesday in a dispute over a network decision not to provide live coverage of a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing on Viet Nam last Thursday.

People who get belted around in a car accident wouldn't if they were seat-belted.

SPAGHETTI WITH SAUSAGE SAUCE

RONCO recipe of the month

- 12 oz. Ronco Spaghetti
- 1 lb. sausage
- 1 3 or 4 oz. can mushrooms, drained
- 1 medium onion, sliced
- 1 clove garlic, finely chopped
- 2 8 oz. cans tomato sauce
- 1 cup grated cheddar cheese

Cook spaghetti according to package directions. Cook sausage over low heat until browned. Drain off all but 1/3 cup drippings. Add mushrooms, onion and garlic to sausage. Cook until onion is tender. Add tomato sauce and cook for 15 minutes. Stir cheese into hot drained spaghetti. Spoon spaghetti onto plate, add sauce. Serve immediately. Serves 4 to 6.

Rockefeller Bows to Union

NEW YORK (AP) -- Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has quickly signed a legislative bill he sponsored to prevent a new subway and bus strike in New York City.

The law allows 34,600 members of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union to get the pay increases they were granted in the settlement that ended their 12-day strike at the start of the year.

It exempts the transit workers from penalties under a state law that bans strikes by public employees and bars any pay raise for strikers for three years.

A State Supreme Court justice, ruling in a taxpayer's suit, declared last week that it would be illegal for the city Transit Authority to pay the transit workers the two-year, 15 percent increase they were granted.

The court ruling threatened a wildcat transit strike—perhaps next weekend.

New Center Unit Asked

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) -- The Senate Appropriations Committee was asked Wednesday to approve a new housing unit for 300 men at the Men's Training Center at Moberly. Gov. Warren E. Hearnes recommended $1,990,000 for the unit, which would raise the center's population potential to 900.

Fred T. Wilkinson, corrections director, outlined a capital improvement budget of $2.492,243 for the corrections department but said some savings could be made by buying power and trimming other items.

Stoddard GOP Chooses Howard

DEXTER -- The Stoddard county Republican central committee met Thursday night in the office of C.A. Powell in Dexter.

New officers elected were committee chairman, Elbert W. Howard, Puxico; Duck Creek township, vice-chairman, Mrs. Naomi Tucker, Essex; Richland township, secretary, Mrs. Betty Stephens, Advance; Pike township, and treasurer, Harold Glenn, RFD, Dexter, Richland township.

Other members of the committee are: Castor township, Rex Wellman, Bloomfield, and Mrs. Vera Wellman, Bloomfield; Duck Creek township, Mrs. Effie Litzler, Dudley; Elk township, Mrs. Edna Swinger, Essex; Liberty township, J. C. Frame, RFD, Dexter; New Lisbon township, Lawrence Garrison, RFD, Advance, and Mrs. Pearl Cox, RFD Advance.

California Virus Is Asian Flu

BERKELEY, Calif. AP - The virus that has kept 250,000 Los Angeles children out of school has been identified by the California Department of Health as Asian flu.

Doctors at the department's virus laboratory made the identification Wednesday. The bug causes headaches and stomach upsets of a sort more intense than ordinary flu. It first came to California in 1957.

Name Belies Nature

The name of the handsome little sparrow hawk belies its nature since the bird rarely attacks sparrows or other birds. It lives largely on insects and often circles edges of brush fires to catch insects flushed by the flames.

For Today From The Upper Room

That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; and to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge. (Ephesians 3:17-19)

PRAYER: Gracious Father, who hast given knowledge of Thy way and purpose, we thank Thee for giving us many reasons why we should maintain our faith in Thee. Help us by Thy grace to find ways for expressing our faith which will be means of help to others. In the Savior's name. Amen.

PEACHY GOOD BREAD PUDDING

For 2-quart baking dish:

4 cups 2-day-old diced bread
2 tablespoons melted butter
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup scalded seedless raisins
2 13-ounce cans MILNOT
3 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
pinch of nutmeg
pinch of cinnamon
1 No. 2 1/2 can of peach halves

Meringue

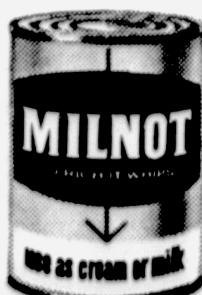

2 egg whites
1/4 cup granulated sugar

Preheat oven to 350°. Cut bread in 1-inch cubes, leaving crust on. Blend egg yolks, sugar, raisins, butter, cinnamon, and nutmeg with MILNOT in a large bowl. Add diced bread and soak 5 minutes. Pour into 2-quart buttered baking dish.

Set baking dish in large pan hot water and bake 45 minutes in 350° oven. Remove from oven. Beat egg whites until stiff, add sugar and beat another 1/2 minute. Top pudding with well drained peaches. Place meringue around peaches, filling in all empty spaces. Return to oven and bake another 15 minutes or until meringue is brown. Serve warm. Serves 8.

MILNOT goes better wherever you would use milk or cream... in coffee, mashed potatoes, cream soups or desserts.

If cows could... they'd give MILNOT.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine is in deep trouble and I'd like to help her out. Linda was 15 in November. She hasn't been driver's education yet but she drives better than most teen-agers.

Several months ago Linda took her mother's car keys and had a set made for herself. She has taken the car out several times but has stayed off the main streets. The police did not see her.

Last week her mother got wind of what she was doing and was wild with anger. Linda's father joined the war on his wife's side.

Linda's punishment is no dates for 90 days and her weekly allowance goes from $5 to $2 during this time. This means Linda will miss out on some of the most important parties of her life. Also she will be like stone broke for three months. I think the punishment is too harsh. Her parents say she must pay dearly for her sneaky behavior. Will you say something to make the punishment lighter? --

FRIEND IN NEED
Eyo: Sorry, I wouldn't move a muscle to get the sentence shortened by a day or a dime. I applaud your parents for their toughness and their refusal to compromise.

Dear Ann: Our son married a fine girl. Bernice's mother is a nice person (a widow) but, frankly we have nothing in common. If our son had not married her daughter I wouldn't have one thing to say to her. The woman is a chronic complainer, consumed with self pity and a non-stop talker.

Bernice has asked me dozens of times to pick up her mother and take her with us to luncheons and church affairs. I have always obliged, naturally she sits with us and I drive her home.

Whenever we are invited to Bernice's for dinner her mother is present. I wish it were otherwise but I would never say so.

The problem is that Bernice has put me on the spot three times in the last few weeks by asking me to include her mother when I have had small dinner parties in my home.

I feel our daughter-in-law is foisting the woman on us and I resent it. Am I wrong? I realize this is an explosive situation and I'd like to know how to handle it. --

DYNAMITE LADEN
Dear Dyna: A blood relationship does not give people the right to exercise unmitigated gall. I'll bet Bernice wouldn't dream of putting her friends on the spot this way -- and she should not do it to her mother-in-law either.

Dear Ann Landers: I teach in an elementary school where the faculty ranges in ages from about 24 to 60. We all call each other by our first names, with the exception of one teacher. Although I call her Geraldine, she insists on calling me Mrs. Olson. Yesterday I asked her why she continues to call me Mrs. Olson even though I have asked her to call me Evelyn. She answered, "I feel more comfortable calling you Mrs. Olson."

Does this mean she wants to maintain a barrier? What should my reaction be? --

PUZZLED
Dear Puzzled: She does not wish to get too chummy and this is her way of letting you know. Drop the Geraldine and call her Mrs. What-ever-hers name. She will soon realize that you have no desire to foist your friendship on her and that she can relax.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting -- And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

Some parents, either have, or will, be receiving letters from the schools informing them that their children are not doing satisfactory work in school or are not working in accordance with their level of ability. This is done to enlist the parents help in trying to bring about improvement. Usually if the parent and the teachers discuss the difficulty which the student may be having, many times it can be corrected, or at least improved. Sometimes poor work is just a case of plain laziness. In others it may be because of the lack of understanding of assignments, poor study habits, lack of organization and occasionally, poor eye sight or hearing on the part of the student. Improvement can be brought about in most of these if the parent will work with the school.

So if you receive one of these letters, please do not take it lightly, but rather, discuss it with your child, and immediately phone the school for a conference with the principals or the teachers. Your child's future may be at stake and some time spent now may pay off in terms of his success at a later date.

We also hope that some parents will get letters calling for attention to above average work or other evidence of the student's success in school. We encourage teachers to balance reports of unsatisfactory work with approximately the same number commending students for good work. There is usually about the same justification.

We just had a report from Principal Jack Cothern of Southwest Elementary that during the month of January, the pupils there read a total of 3,345 books or an average of six and one half books per child. This is a very fine record and we imagine that other of our elementary schools are getting about the same results. Southwest School is also compiling an excellent safety record for the year and thus far have not had an accident that has required medical attention.

Francis Keppel, the recent former U.S. Commissioner of Education, addressed the Council of Chief State School Officers last year on the subject "What We Don't Know Can Hurt Us." In this speech he outlined what he believed are national objectives for education. We repeat these as we think they are a matter of interest to all who are concerned with people and the future of our nation. They are:

"First, to raise the quality of education in our schools everywhere and for everyone.

In the 20th century, we cannot tolerate second - class education if we intend to remain a first - class Nation.

Second, to bring equality of educational opportunity to every child in America, whatever his color, or creed, or handicap, or family circumstance.

Third, to provide vocational and technical training that is geared to the economy and technology of today and tomorrow, not of yesterday.

Fourth, to make college and university study possible for all young people who can benefit by it. In our advanced economy, we can no longer afford to regard higher education as a luxury.

And fifth, to bring our educational resources to bear directly on problems in our communities -- as an indispensable social instrument in fashioning the Society we have chosen to become."

In this rapidly changing world, with new opportunities, ideas and discoveries, it is not surprising that most of us at times become confused or at least need help in thinking through all the many questions that come to our minds. Children and young people, partially because of their lack of experience, are likely to have even more questions that puzzle them and for which they need reasonable answers. They ask "What should I do? Where should I go? Why? What can I do?" Their parents are usually concerned and want to know, "What can my son do best? What kind of education can he get or should he get? How can I help my children?"

In recent years a new profession in education has developed in relation to this need for answers and for guidance. This is the profession of Guidance and Counseling. It is characterized by service to the individual student and to his parents in relation to the student's needs, abilities and probable future. It helps the student to understand himself and to better adjust to his fellows and to his environment.

We have four counselors, working primarily with secondary level students to assist them with their problems, to help them plan their educational programs and to solve their vocational, educational or social questions. Four counselors are not enough and we need to begin this service when the child enters school, or perhaps even before, because many of the problems which later cause the students difficulty and may keep him from succeeding could be identified and adjusted to at an earlier date.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2" hotmix asphaltic pavement on six inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Broadway to Ralph Street in accordance with plans and specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston, Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.75 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement.

Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement.

Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions.

Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of Feb. 1966. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

Some Practical Applications

The same three choices exist in multiplication. To multiply 3 x 4 in Modulo 5, visualize the hand moving from 0 to 3 then being moved ahead 3 hours at a time for a total of 4 moves, finally coming to rest at 2. The table shows 3 x 4 = 2 directly. The congruence relationship can be used thus: 3 x 4 = 12 (Remember to read the = sign as congruent) but 12 is congruent to 2, therefore 3 x 4 = 2.

Subtraction is the inverse of addition so it involves counterclockwise movement of the hands, and inverse use of the table. In the example 3 - 4 the congruence relation can be used conveniently. Because we think of 4 as larger than 3 we can use 8, the next number congruent to 3 and make the problem 8 - 4 = 4, thus 3 - 4 = 4 (Modulo 5). Of course, in the case of 4 - 3 = 1 straight arithmetic suffices.

Congruence is also convenient in division. In the problem 2 - 3 we try successive numbers congruent to 2 until we find one that is divisible by 3. Thus 2 - 3 = 7 + 3 = 12 - 3 = 4.

In modular arithmetic we can use only integers. Fractions do not exist, so division problems must come out even or not at all.

A return to Modulo 12 as used in the early part of this article will bring out some interesting facts about division. Use the congruence relation in the problem that was given earlier, 3 + 3 = 1 or 5 or 9. It comes out like this: 3 + 3 = 1 = 15 + 3 = 5 = 27 + 3 = 9 = 39 + 3 = 13 but 13 = 1 so we are beginning to repeat our answers and can stop.

When the modulus is divisible by one of the numbers on the clockface we have a situation where some division problems do not have unique answers. Some have several answers and some have no answer. When the modulus cannot be divided by any number on the clock face the division problems have unique answers.

This modular arithmetic has practical applications. Problems dealing with days of the week are Modulo 7. Problems dealing with months of the year are Modulo 12 problems.

The big virtue of this topic is that it demonstrates the existence of a totally different kind of number, but one which obeys the Commutative, the Associative, and Distributive Laws. The fundamental operations are defined as in regular arithmetic. It is a device to broaden the student's knowledge and appreciation of numbers.

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

Some parents, either have, or will, be receiving letters from the schools informing them that their children are not doing satisfactory work in school or are not working in accordance with their level of ability. This is done to enlist the parents help in trying to bring about improvement. Usually if the parent and the teachers discuss the difficulty which the student may be having, many times it can be corrected, or at least improved. Sometimes, poor work is just a case of plain laziness. In others it may be because of the lack of understanding of assignments, poor study habits, lack of organization and occasionally, poor eye sight or hearing on the part of the student. Improvement can be brought about in most of these if the parent will work with the school.

So if you receive one of these letters, please do not take it lightly, but rather, discuss it with your child, and immediately phone the school for a conference with the principals or the teachers. Your child's future may be at stake and some time spent now may pay off in terms of his success at a later date.

We also hope that some parents will get letters calling for attention to above average work or other evidence of the student's success in school. We encourage teachers to balance reports of unsatisfactory work with approximately the same number commending students for good work. There is usually about the same justification. We just had a report from Principal Jack Cothern of Southwest Elementary that during the month of January, the pupils there read a total of 3,345 books or an average of six and one half books per child. This is a very fine record and we imagine that other of our elementary schools are getting about the same results. Southwest School is also compiling an excellent safety record for the year and thus far have not had an accident that has required medical attention.

Francis Keppel, the recent former U.S. Commissioner of Education, addressed the Council of Chief State School Officers last year on the subject "What We Don't Know Can Hurt Us." In this speech he outlined what he believed are national objectives for education. We repeat these as we think they are a matter of interest to all who are concerned with people and the future of our nation. They are:

"First, to raise the quality of education in our schools everywhere and for everyone."

In the 20th century, we cannot tolerate second - class education if we intend to remain a first - class Nation.

Second, to bring equality of educational opportunity to every child in America, whatever his color, or creed, or handicap, or family circumstance.

Third, to provide vocational and technical training that is geared to the economy and technology of today and tomorrow, not of yesterday.

Fourth, to make college and university study possible for all young people who can benefit by it. In our advanced economy, we can no longer afford to regard higher education as a luxury.

And fifth, to bring our educational resources to bear directly on problems in our communities -- as an indispensable social instrument in fashioning the Society we have chosen to become."

In this rapidly changing world, with new opportunities, ideas and discoveries, it is not surprising that most of us at times become confused or at least need help in thinking through all the many questions that come to our minds. Children and young people, partially because of their lack of experience, are likely to have even more questions that puzzle them and for which they need reasonable answers. They ask "What should I do? Where should I go? Why? What can I do?" Their parents are usually concerned and want to know, "What can my son do best? What kind of education can he get or should he get? How can I help my children?"

In recent years a new profession in education has developed in relation to this need for answers and for guidance. This is the profession of Guidance and Counseling. It is characterized by service to the individual student and to his parents in relation to the student's needs, abilities and probable future. It helps the student to understand himself and to better adjust to his fellows and to his environment.

We have four counselors, working primarily with secondary level students to assist them with their problems, to help them plan their educational programs and to solve their vocational, educational or social questions. Four counselors are not enough and we need to begin this service when the child enters school, or perhaps even before, because many of the problems which later cause the students difficulty and may keep him from succeeding could be identified tomorrow.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 11 1/2" hotmix asphalt pavement on six inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Broadway to Ralph Street in accordance with plans and specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston, Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.75 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of Feb. 1966. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk. 117-118-119-120-121-122-123

Mr. Bollinger was born and raised in Benton, Scott County. He is a Veteran of World War II and the Korean Conflict. Your vote and influence will be appreciated.

Bell Judged Mental Case In Slaying

KENNETT -- An order was made in Dunklin County Circuit Court on Brady Bell, 35, of Kennett, charged with first-degree murder in the fatal beating on July 20, 1965 of his mother, stating that he lacked the capacity to understand the proceedings and to give assistance in his defense.

Bell was ordered committed to the custody of the director of the division of mental health diseases for so long as a lack of capacity endures.

This order was based upon a report from state hospital No. 4 at Farmington.

Bell will be confined in the institution and held until he is able to understand the charges against him and assist in his defense.

In the future, according to Judge Arthur U. Goodman, Jr., who presided, and Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker, who represented the State, if Bell is able to do so, he may be tried on the charge.

Two felony cases were heard in circuit court. Carl Eugene Fletcher of Cardwell, charged with exhibiting a deadly weapon, was sentenced to one year in jail and paroled upon condition of good behavior and the payment of costs in the amount of $52.70. Leroy Wright, 19, of Kennett, pleaded guilty to uttering and made oral application for probation. Buford Mooney, State Board of Probation and Parole Officer, was assigned to make investigation and report to circuit court March 14.

Sign FHA Loan Pact

DEXTER - Three local officials of the Dexter Housing Authority were in Fort Worth, Texas Wednesday to sign a preliminary loan contract and to be briefed on procedure.

Making the trip were Howard Christman, chairman of the board of directors, Harry Jennings, Executive Director and Mayor Melvin Gahner.

The three men met with department directors at the FHA area office who discussed with them legal aspects, finance, public relations, during the day.

The Dexter federal housing authority was notified last month that $20,000 had been approved as operational expense for the Dexter project and following the preliminary contract signing Wednesday, it is expected that the operational expense money will be received here shortly.

Jennings said that no definite decision on the site or sites for the housing project has been made as yet, but that necessary steps are being taken to move the plans for the project along as fast as possible.

The Dexter Housing Authority will include 70 units and will cost approximately one and one-half million dollars.

$10,000 Asked For Car Mishap

KENNETT - A $10,000 damage suit has been filed in the office of Dunklin County Circuit Clerk Brydon Ross against Gail Mayberry of Kennett for Michael O. Day by his father, Rollan Day, also of Kennett.

The petition charged that at 9:30 p.m. June 1, 1965, the defendant was operating a 1955 DeSoto and Day was thrown from the car and injured. Day's suit alleges that Miss Mayberry operated her car in a careless and negligent way, drove at dangerous and excessive rate of speed, failed to stop or attempt to stop the vehicle and failed to heed Day's request for help.

The petition further alleges that the defendant continued to drive the vehicle at a fast speed when she knew Day and others were on the fenders, top and trunk of the car. According to the petition, she started at a fast rate of speed and refused to stop to allow the plaintiff and others to get off.

Day received a severe injury to his head and brain and was unconscious several days.

Reasoner Will Address Teachers

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Harry Reasoner, commentator and White House correspondent for CBS News, will speak at the annual meeting of the Southeast Missouri Teachers Association March 17-18.

Reasoner will address the opening session. Noted educators will speak to the divisions of the meeting during the two-day session.

John J. Bollinger

Files For Recorder

BENTON: John J. Bollinger, Recorder of Deeds, has filed to succeed himself in the Democratic Primary, August 2nd, 1966.

Mr. Bollinger was born and raised in Benton, Scott County. He is a Veteran of World War II and the Korean Conflict. Your vote and influence will be appreciated.

Bell Judged Mental Case In Slaying

KENNETT -- An order was made in Dunklin County Circuit Court on Brady Bell, 35, of Kennett, charged with first-degree murder in the fatal beating on July 20, 1965 of his mother, stating that he lacked the capacity to understand the proceedings and to give assistance in his defense.

Bell was ordered committed to the custody of the director of the division of mental health diseases for as long as a lack of capacity endures.

This order was based upon a report from state hospital No. 4 at Farmington.

Bell will be confined in the institution and held until he is able to understand the charges against him and assist in his defense.

In the future, according to Judge Arthur U. Goodman, Jr., who presided, and Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker, who represented the State, if Bell is able to do so, he may be tried on the charge.

Two felony cases were heard in circuit court. Carl Eugene Fletcher of Cardwell, charged with exhibiting a deadly weapon, was sentenced to one year in jail and paroled upon condition of good behavior and the payment of costs in the amount of $52.70.

Leroy Wright, 19, of Kennett, pleaded guilty to uttering and made oral application for probation. Buford Mooney, State Board of Probation and Parole Officer, was assigned to make investigation and report to circuit court March 14.

Sign FHA Loan Pact

DEXTER - Three local officials of the Dexter Housing Authority were in Fort Worth, Texas Wednesday to sign a preliminary loan contract and to be briefed on procedure.

Making the trip were Howard Chrisman, chairman of the board of directors, Harry Jennings, Executive Director and Mayor Melvin Garner.

The three men met with department directors at the FHA area office who discussed with them legal aspects, finance, public relations, during the day.

The Dexter federal housing authority was notified last month that $20,000 had been approved for the Dexter project and following the preliminary contract signing Wednesday, it is expected that the operational expense money will be received here shortly.

Jennings said that no definite decision on the site or sites for the housing project has been made as yet, but that necessary steps are being taken to move the plans for the project along as fast as possible.

The Dexter Housing Authority will include 70 units and will cost approximately one and one-half million dollars.

$10,000 Asked For Car Mishap

KENNETT - A $10,000 damage suit has been filed in the office of Dunklin County Circuit Clerk Brydon Ross against Gail Mayberry of Kennett for Michael O. Day by his father, Rollan Day, also of Kennett.

The petition charged that at 9:30 p.m. June 1, 1965, the defendant was operating a 1955 DeSoto and Day was thrown from the car and injured. Day's suit alleges that Miss Mayberry operated her car in a careless and negligent way, drove at dangerous and excessive rate of speed, failed to stop or attempt to stop the vehicle and failed to heed Day's request for help.

The petition further alleges that the defendant continued to drive the vehicle at a fast speed when she knew Day and others were on the fenders, top and trunk of the car. According to the petition, she started at a fast rate of speed and refused to stop to allow the plaintiff and others to get off.

Day received a severe injury to his head and brain and was unconscious several days.

Reasoner Will Address Teachers

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Harry Reasoner, commentator and White House correspondent for CBS News, will speak at the annual meeting of the Southeast Missouri Teachers Association March 17 - 18.

Reasoner will address the opening session. Noted educators will speak to the divisions of the meeting during the two-day session.

Today In U.S. History

Today is Thursday, Feb. 17, the 48th day of 1966. There are 317 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1800, the House of Representatives, after weeks of balloting, elected Thomas Jefferson president. The vote in the electoral college had been a tie: 73 for Jefferson, 73 for Aaron Burr. Jefferson was elected on the 36th ballot and Burr became vice president.

On this date: In 1916, British and French forces captured Cameroon, Africa, in World War I.

In 1933, the League of Nations condemned the Japanese occupation of Manchuria.

In 1934, King Albert I of Belgium was killed while mountain climbing.

In 1944, U.S. forces invaded Eniwetok Atoll in the Marshall Islands.

Ten years ago - President Dwight D. Eisenhower vetoed a bill to free natural gas from direct federal regulation.

Five years ago - Discoverer 20, the longest and heaviest of the Discoverer series of earth satellites, was launched into polar orbit from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

One year ago - President Johnson declared the United States would persist in the defense of South Viet Nam.

Wheat Stored Under Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported farmers had stored 164 million bushels of 1965 crop wheat under price support loans through January.

This compared with 187 million bushels stored through the same period from the 1964 crop.

The department said about 86 million bushels were in warehouses and about 78 million bushels on farms.

The department also reported farmers placed 182 million bushels of last year's corn under price supports, compared with 186 million a year before.

The amount of wheat stored by states included: North Dakota 35 million bushels, Kansas 31 million, Oklahoma 21 million, Montana 16 million, Washington 19 million, South Dakota 8 million and Texas 9 million.

Storage of corn by states included Iowa 70 million bushels, Nebraska 27 million, Illinois 26 million, Minnesota 23 million, Indiana 11 million, Missouri 9 million and Ohio 4 million.
